Class of 1965
Wyomissing High School
WYOMISSING, PENNSYLVANIA
Volume XLII

Prologue

The practice in preparing for knighthood is similar to the years an underclassman spends studying before he graduates as a Senior. Thus, the Class of 1965 dedicates this Colophon to the Knights of the Round Table.

Alma Mater

Wyomissing we sing,
Praises to you we bring,
Holding fast your pride and beauty,
Leadership in everything.

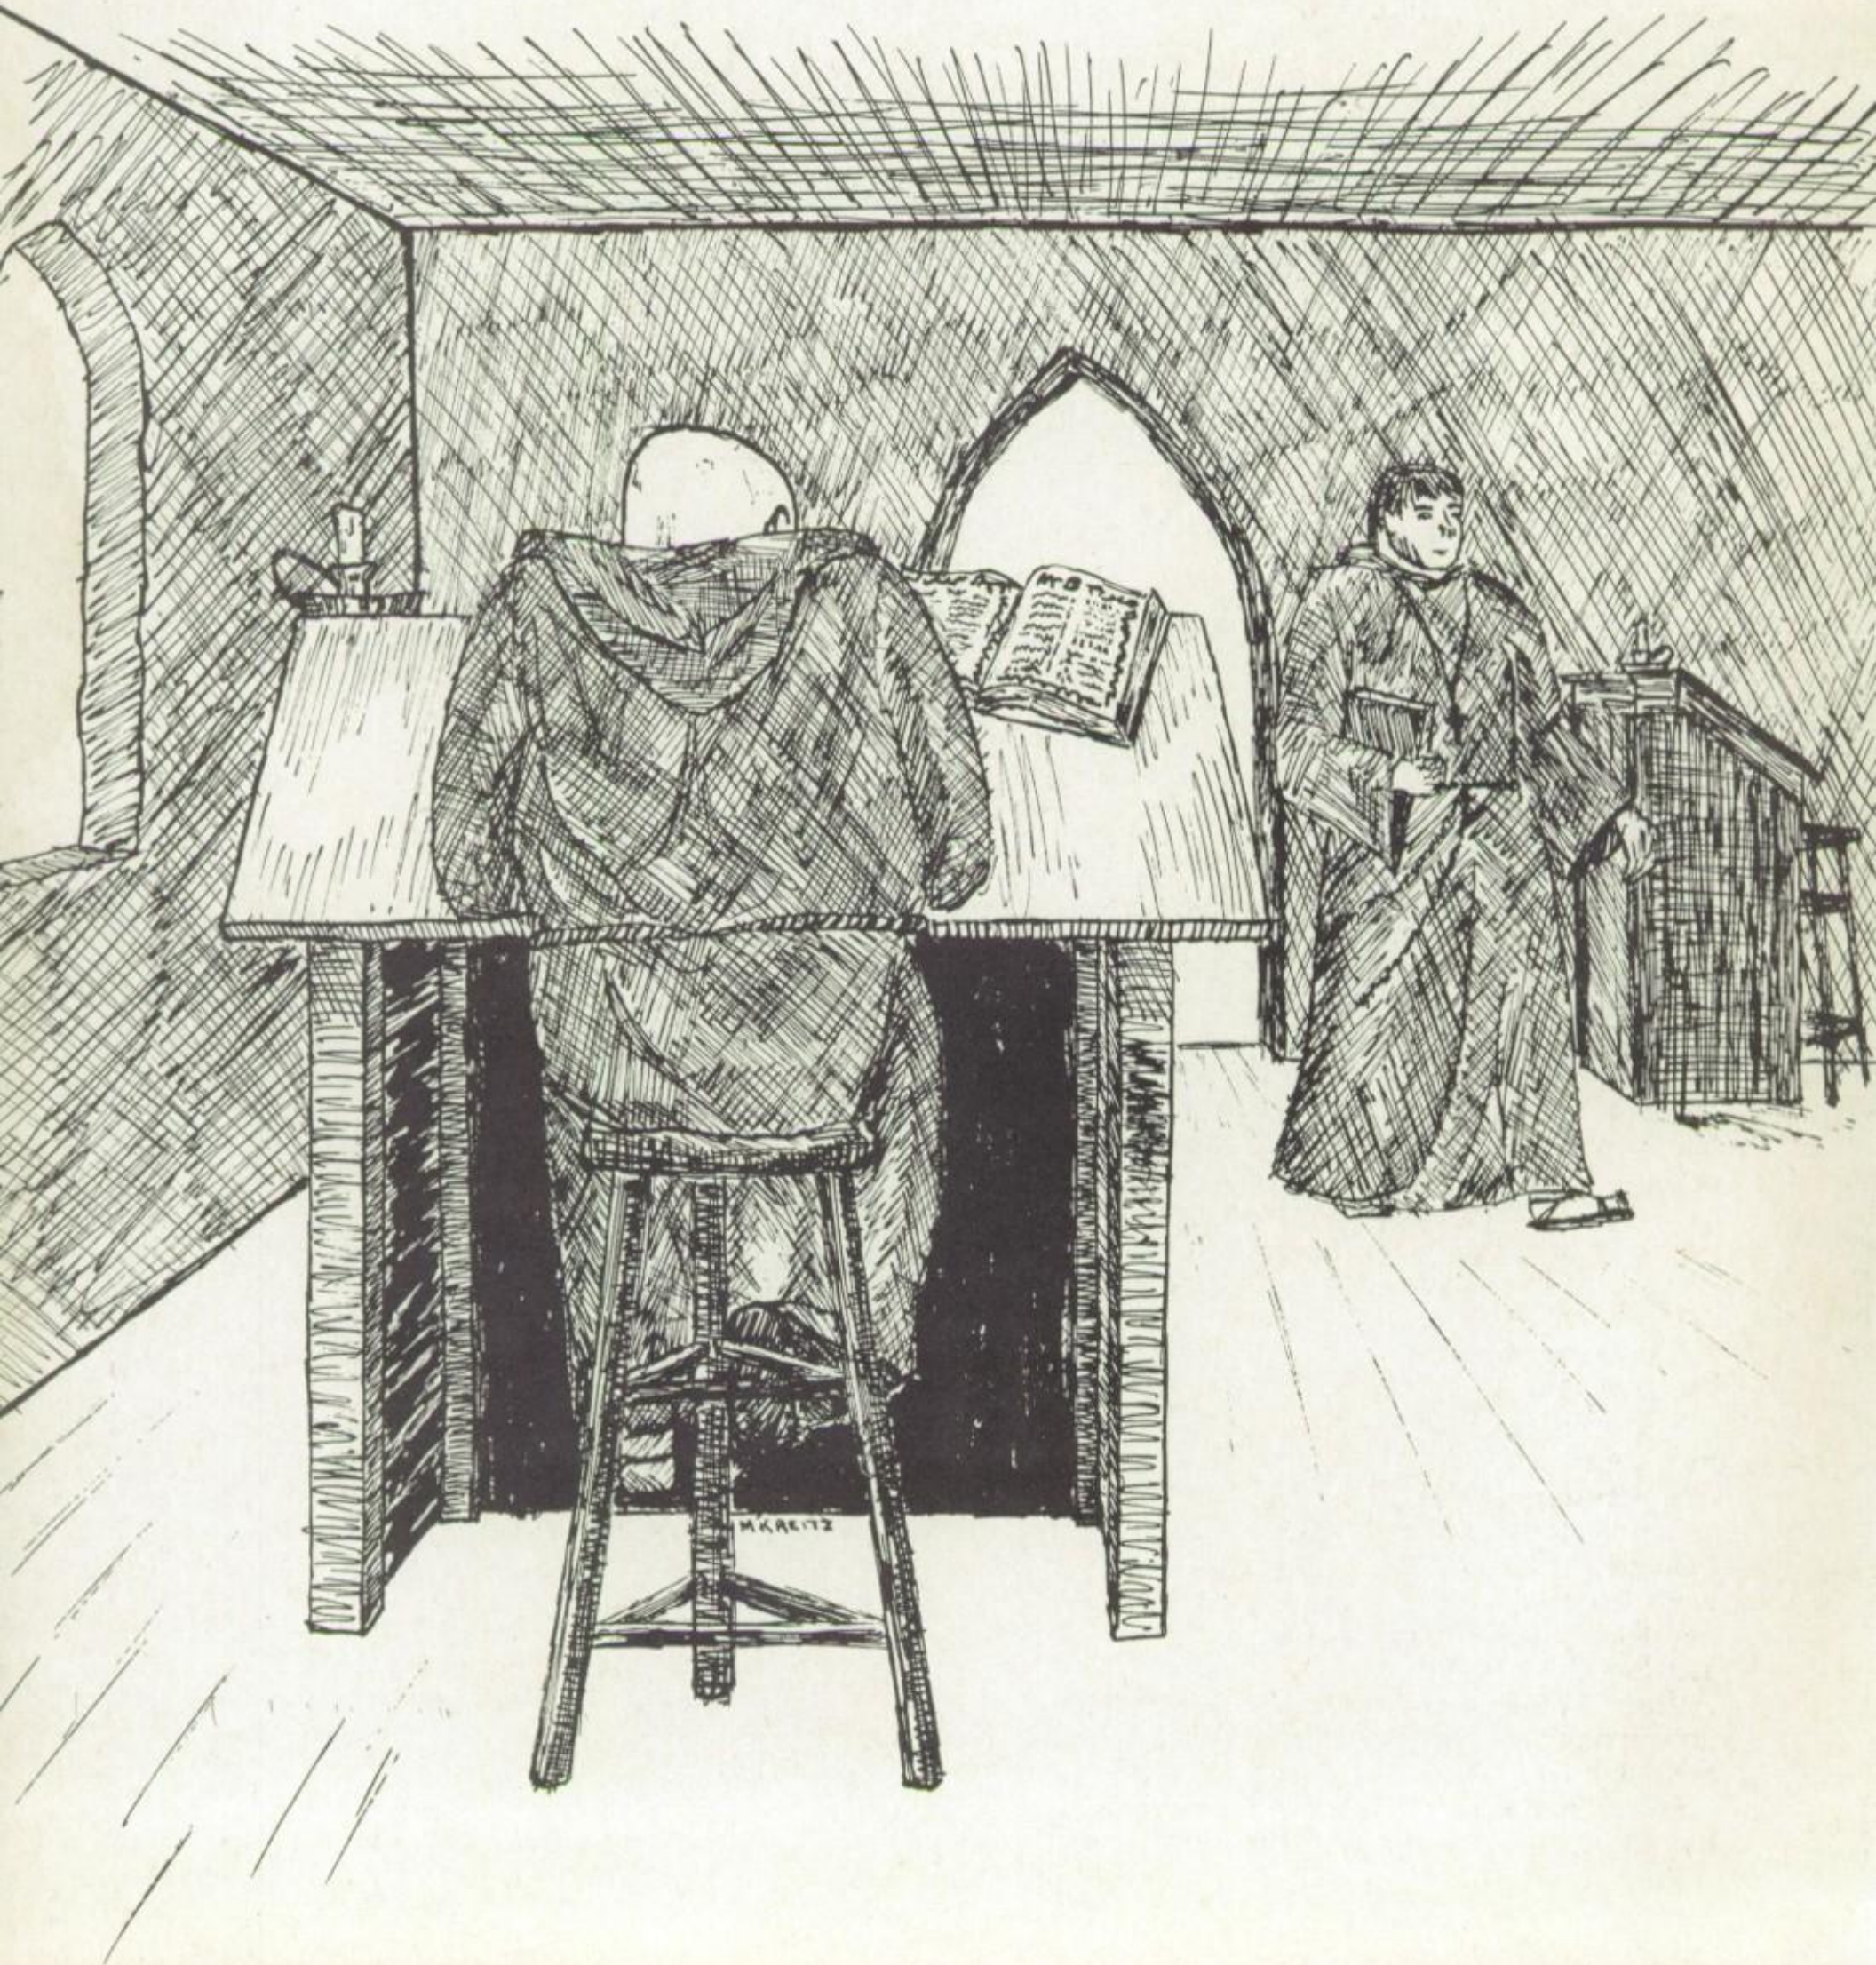

Knowledge for all good and right,
Courage, strength to seek the light,
Bearing high your torch of learning,
May we keep it bright.

Our spirit will not fall,
Alma Mater, we'll recall,
Memories of you we'll treasure
Wyomissing High . . .

Wyomissing, to you
We will always be true,
Hail to thee and praise forever,
Pure white and clearest blue.

In the age of the knights, only the privileged had the opportunity to study. Although public education is available to everyone today, the classic studies of language, history, science and mathematics prevail.

Academics

Academics

SITTING—Mr. Howard Fry, Mr. Alexander Dracha, Mr. William Breitingner, Mrs. W. Raymond McGonigle, Mrs. Sidney Kline. STANDING—Mr. Jacob Hain, Mrs. Nicholas Braun, Mr. Elwood Hollenbach, Mr. Alfred Walter.

School Board

The Wyomissing Area Joint School Board has been busy in the past year, especially with plans for the new high school building, which has been under construction since the spring of 1964. With Mr. Allen Rank as administrator, the Board mulled over all facets of the high school addition. One of the unique points it studied was the Large Group Instruction Area, an advanced innovation in high school educational methods. The Board also made plans for an addition to the Wyomissing Hills Grade School, as Wyomissing Area's whole school system began to take on a new face.

Officers of the Board this year were: president, Mr. William M. Breitingner; vice-president, Mr. Alexander Dracha; and secretary, Mrs. W. Raymond McGonigle. Other members of the Board were Mrs. Nicholas K. Braun, Mrs. Sidney Kline, Mr. Charles Fisher, Mr. Howard Fry, Mr. J. Elwood Hollenbach, Mr. Alfred Walter, and Mr. J. B. Alley, who was appointed by the Wyomissing Hills School Board to replace Mr. Jacob Hain midway in the year. Mrs. Nancy Troutman acted as treasurer for the Board.

Mr. W. Breitingner and Mr. A. Dracha make plans for next month's meeting.

SITTING—Mrs. William A. Smith, III, Mrs. Walter R. Sowers, Mrs. Peyton M. Johnston, Mr. William M. Wagner, Mrs. Robert E. Kreitz, Mrs. Kyle C. Whitefield, Mrs. Robert M. Schumo, Mrs. Edward A. Reider. STANDING—Mr. Oliver F. Smith, Mrs. L. Philip Muller, Mrs. Carl Pettinato, Mrs. Arthur Wahl, Mrs. Russell H. Boekenkroeger, Sr.

Parent Teachers Association

R. Miller, M. Rogers, and C. Parsons entertain at a P.T.A. function with a few traditional folk songs.

This year the Wyomissing Parent Teacher Association planned monthly programs of interest to elementary school parents and teachers as well as to those involved in the High School. These programs included lectures on the new mathematics programs now being used in Wyomissing's schools, children's literature, opportunities for students in junior colleges, discipline, and objectives of the exchange student program. Dr. E. F. Stoudt discussed the Elementary School Appraisal Program now underway with various members of the faculty of the Wyomissing Borough Elementary School. In May an informal dance was held at the Berkshire Country Club to raise funds for the American Field Service foreign student for the 1965-1966 school year.

This year's officers for the PTA were: president, Mr. William Wagner; first vice-president, Mrs. Robert Kreitz; second vice-president, Mrs. William A. Smith, III; secretary, Mrs. Peyton Johnston; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Sowers; and program chairmen, Mrs. Philip Muller for the elementary and Mr. Oliver Smith for the junior-senior high school.

Other members of the board of directors were: Mrs. Arthur Wahl, Mrs. Marshall Parsons, Mrs. David Cole, Mrs. Kyle Whitefield, Mr. Donald Wilson, Mr. John Speicher, Mr. Carl Mogel, Mrs. Russell Boekenkroeger, Mrs. Charles Carabello, and Mrs. Edward Reider.

Academics

"Good morning, Dr. Shafer", says Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Troutman computes the accounts.

Administration

As the student population expanded, the workload of the school office also increased. The task of running the administrative functions smoothly was Mr. Allen W. Rank and Dr. Shafer's responsibility. Aiding them were the secretarial staff. In the main office Mrs. Jeanne Miller assumed the roles of receptionist and switchboard operator. Mrs. Nancy Troutman acted as treasurer for the Wyomissing Area Schools, and, in this position, took care of the bookkeeping, state forms, school insurance, and the school payroll. Mrs. Marion Kozloff helped prepare student manuscripts and activities accounts, besides working as the secretary in the guidance office where she helped with Mr. John Reitz. Also aiding Mr. Reitz was Mrs. Florence Schrack, who took care of student attendance records. In the guidance section of the administration system Mr. Reitz provided additional services for students, especially seniors whom he counseled on college selection and admittance. He also provided information on tests, vocations, and scholarships. The combined services of the two offices kept the school running efficiently and pleasantly throughout the year.

Mr. Reitz and Mrs. Kozloff prepare student manuscripts in the guidance office.

Tribute to Mr. Rank

The COLOPHON staff wishes to pay particular tribute to Mr. Allen W. Rank, who, after forty years of devoted service to the educational progress of the Wyomissing Schools, announced his resignation as supervising principal effective June 30.

During the years, he has been active in the classroom as well as in the administrative capacity. Starting his teaching career in 1925, he became high school principal in 1929. Later, in 1948, upon the death of Mr. Lester Appenzellar, supervising principal, Mr. Rank was elected to the vacancy.

His interests were not confined only to the academic field. During the years he has served as manager of baseball, basketball, track and soccer teams. Later, he was on the executive committee of District 3, Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, and is currently its vice-chairman.

Mr. Rank attended Gettysburg College for one year and transferred to Princeton, graduating in 1921. He received his Master's degrees from both Harvard and Columbia Universities several years later.

It is with genuine regret, then, that Wyomissing must say good-bye to Mr. Rank, who has always made his warm humanity felt among the faculty and students.

The COLOPHON, which was one of Mr. Rank's first projects, feels it owes its continued success to the past labors and devoted interest of Mr. Allen W. Rank.

"I know the school is around here somewhere," comments Mr. Rank as he examines the blueprints.

Dr. Shafer agrees that a friendly school is a happy school.

Dr. B. Henry Shafer

Dr. B. Henry Shafer, principal of Wyomissing High since 1954, will succeed Mr. Rank next year, who announced his resignation in March. A magna cum laude graduate from Susquehanna University, Dr. Shafer received his doctorate in education from the University of Maryland in 1961. After graduating from college, he taught in Pennsylvania public schools and later served in the Air Force as a personnel consultant.

At Wyomissing, Dr. Shafer has served as guidance counselor, senior high principal and adviser to the school's chapter of the National Honor Society.

The COLOPHON staff wishes to extend its heartiest congratulations to Dr. Shafer upon his elevation to the most important post in the educational system of Wyomissing.

Academics

W. Jay learns grammatical construction under Mr. Rickolt's guidance.

Mr. Boehm aids P. Perfect, "The audience is over there."

English

Mrs. Houck assists C. Edwards and P. Huff with their vocabulary study.

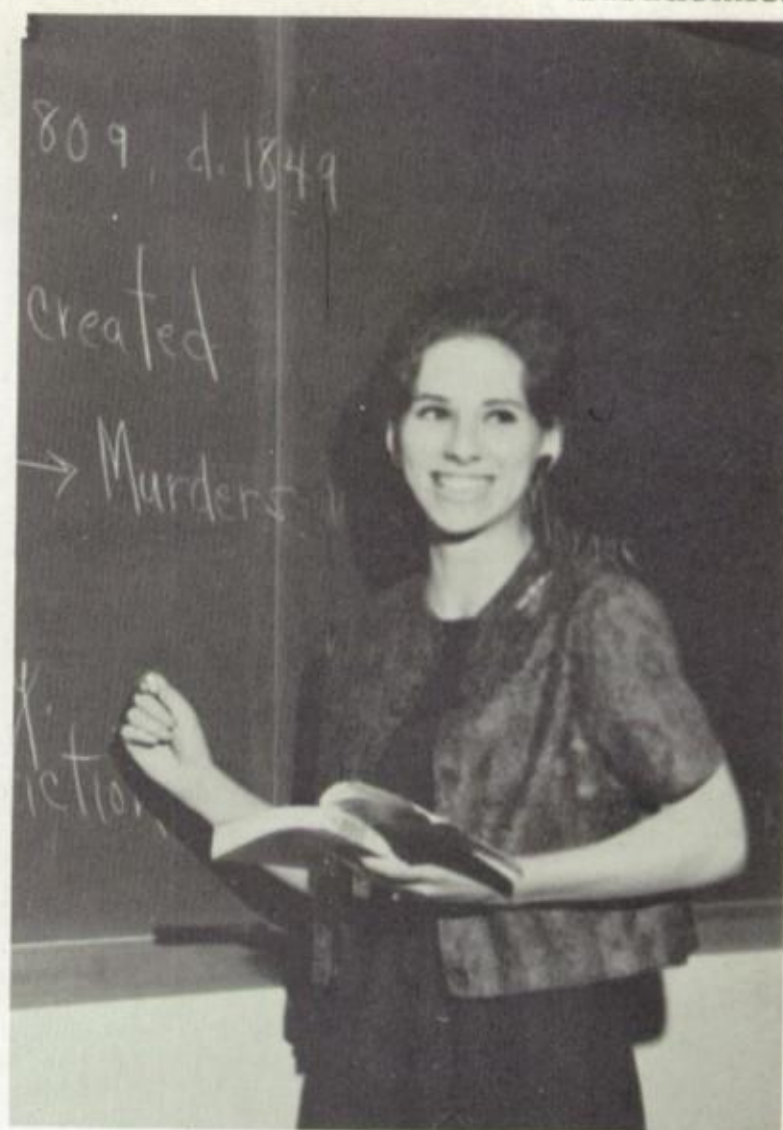

Mr. Milford leads a discussion of the Friday theme.

Mr. Milford briefs D. Hill and B. Schlegel for an oral book report.

English

This year Mr. Russell Milford instructed the eleventh and twelfth grades in English. In the junior class he taught basic grammar rules, vocabulary, and oral and written composition, and provided a sound foundation in literature. The seniors studied college preparatory English grammar, vocabulary, and English literature, in addition to devoting a great deal of their time to the Investigative Theme, a research paper dealing with a limited literary topic. For the sophomores, Mr. Paul Boehm, who taught speech as well as English, stressed clear writing, grammar review, and appreciation of the short story. His eleventh grade section concentrated on American literature, advanced grammar, writing, and vocabulary. Mrs. Lyman Houck, teaching reading and English, presented a reading development program to the seventh grade; basal readers, literature, and grammar to the eighth grade; and college preparatory reading and vocabulary studies to the ninth grade. With Mrs. Joan Williams, eighth grade pupils improved their speech, grammar, and literary skill. Her ninth grade studied basic mechanics, drama, poetry, public speaking, and the construction of a research paper. The Reverend Becker replaced Mrs. Williams for the second half of the year. Mr. Lawrence Rickolt introduced the seventh and eighth grade students to an outline of grammar, syntax, vocabulary, and a study of short stories.

Mr. Boehm expounds upon Longfellow's poem "Nature".

Academics

"This a poison-arrow, Mrs. Schrack?"

Languages

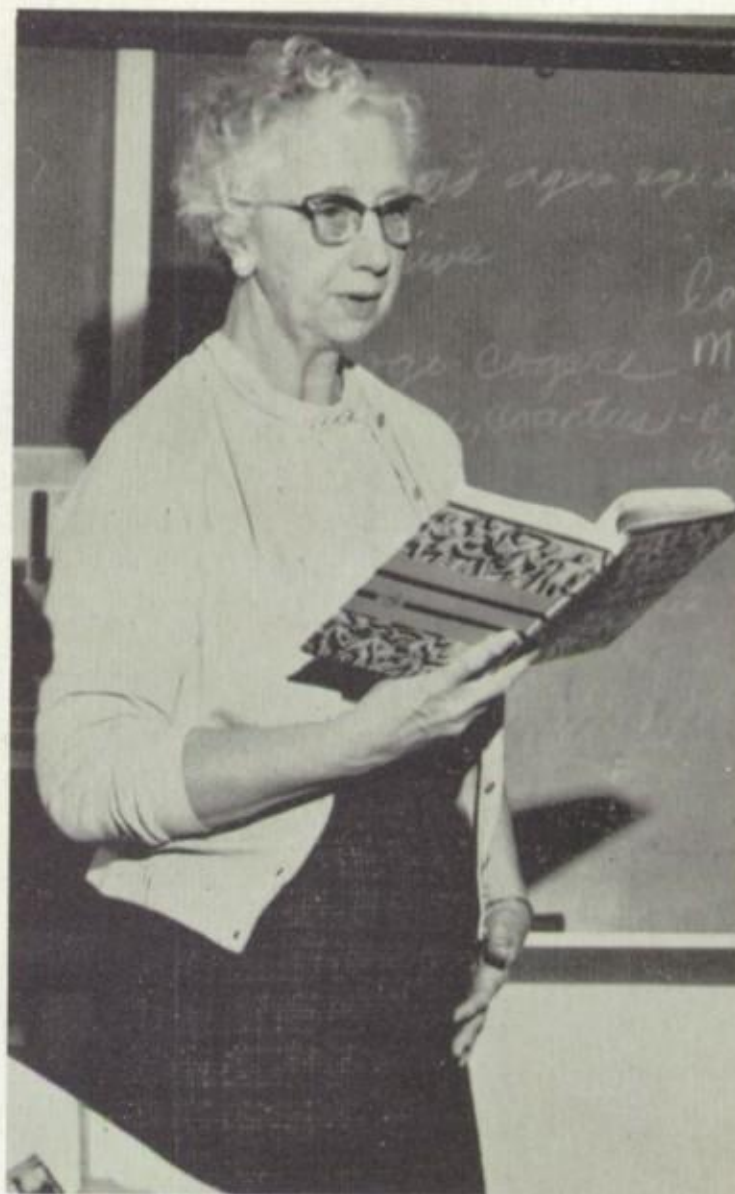

Show-and-tell with Miss Jones.

Mr. Frinzi tells his class, "Esta 'piggy' fue al mercado."

J. Fegley and S. Derr help Miss Jones plan the French Club field trip.

Mrs. Schrack sparks Roman myths with factual commentary.

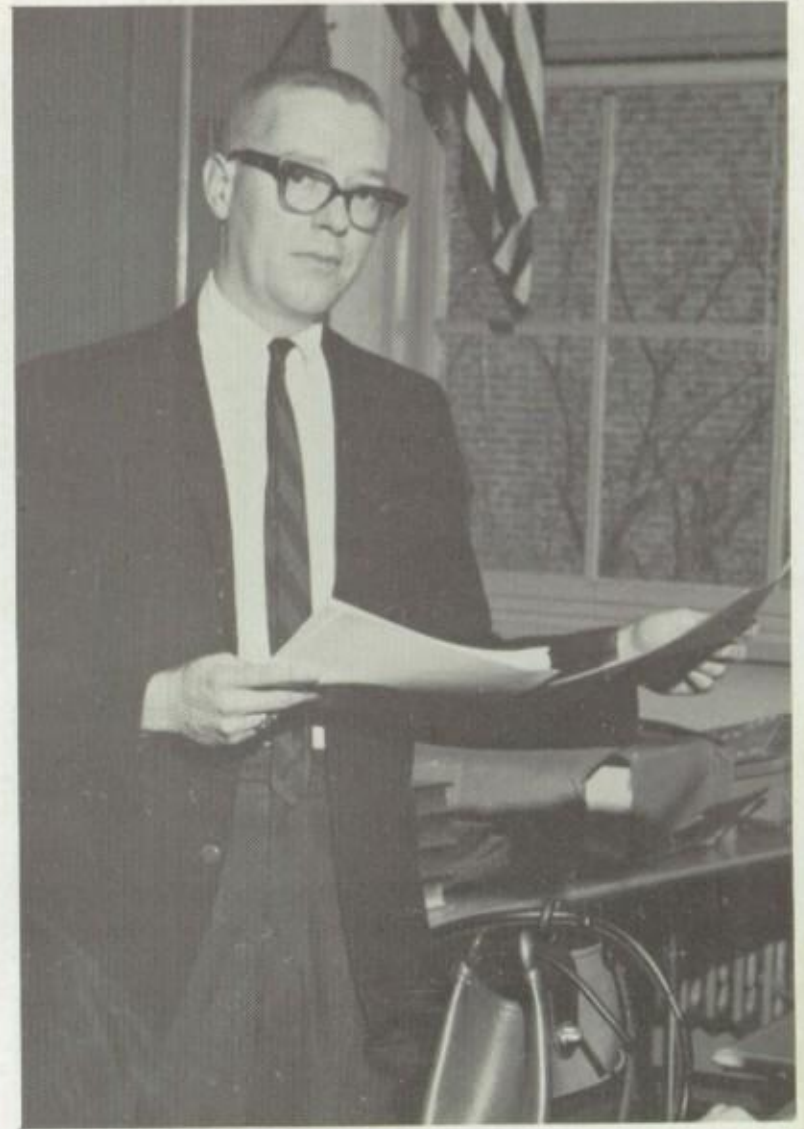

Mrs. Knipe and Ligia Clavijo inspect the flag of Ligia's native Colombia.

This year's language department offered students Latin, Spanish, and French courses. Mrs. Florence Schrack introduced ninth grade Latin classes to basic working grammar as well as Roman culture and history. Tenth grade Latin students worked with advanced grammar and began translation of Caesar's Gallic Wars and Roman myths. Eleventh and twelfth grade classes translated the works of Cicero, Sallust, and Ovid. Mrs. Madlyn Knipe taught second and third year Spanish in the eleventh and twelfth grades. The aim of the second year Spanish students was to learn to speak and to read the language through listening to tapes, reading Spanish conversations, and delivering oral themes. These students also began to study Latin American history and customs. Third year Spanish pupils, while reinforcing previous skills, strove to learn not only to read and to speak but also to write fluent Spanish.

Mr. Anthony Frinzi taught first year Spanish in tenth and eleventh grades and French in seventh and eighth grades. In his Spanish classes Mr. Frinzi accentuated oral repetition of basic pattern sentences along with explanations necessary for greater understanding. Seventh grade French pupils engaged in oral conversation and question-answer periods. Eighth grade French classes studied traditional French, grammar, and conversation. Students continued their French study in ninth through twelfth grades with Miss Margaret Jones. In the ninth and tenth grades Miss Jones acquainted her pupils with French language patterns through oral repetition which reinforced proper structure, phrasing, and rhythm in the students' minds. Eleventh grade classes surveyed French civilization and geography and discussed several short stories.

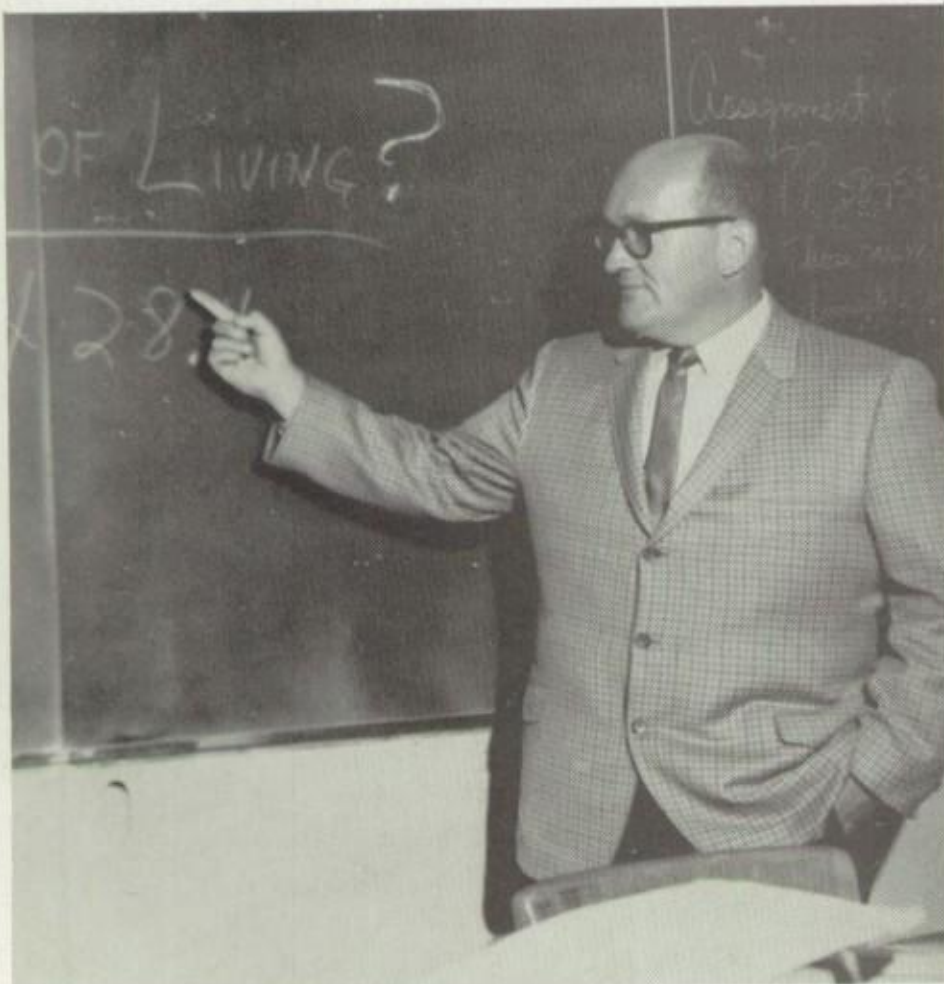

Mr. G. boasts, "I can outstare anyone in this room."

Mr. Aubrey cheers up the class by giving a test.

Social Studies

Mr. O'Connor discusses the cost of living.

The social studies department was staffed by five teachers this year. Tenth grade students studied world cultures with Mr. Charles Gebensleben as he outlined for them the development of the various cultural areas of the world. His eleventh graders were introduced to American history. He stressed agrarian and urban growth as it was affected by the Civil War. American history was also taught to junior sections by Mr. James O'Connor, who dealt mainly with the post-Reconstruction era in the United States. Mr. O'Connor took charge of the economics and government courses for the senior class. In these areas he stressed the role of government and economics in society with a special look at totalitarianism. Mr. James Hoffert taught a ninth grade civics class. Civics classes were also conducted by Mr. Leonard Noll. Both teachers covered the study of current events, federal and local government, citizenship, and Pennsylvania history. Mr. Noll also instructed the eighth grade American history course which covered the period prior to and including the Civil War and stressed the study of the presidency. Both geography and history were taught by Mr. Thomas Aubrey, who introduced students to the history of world societies and the effect of geographical location upon their development.

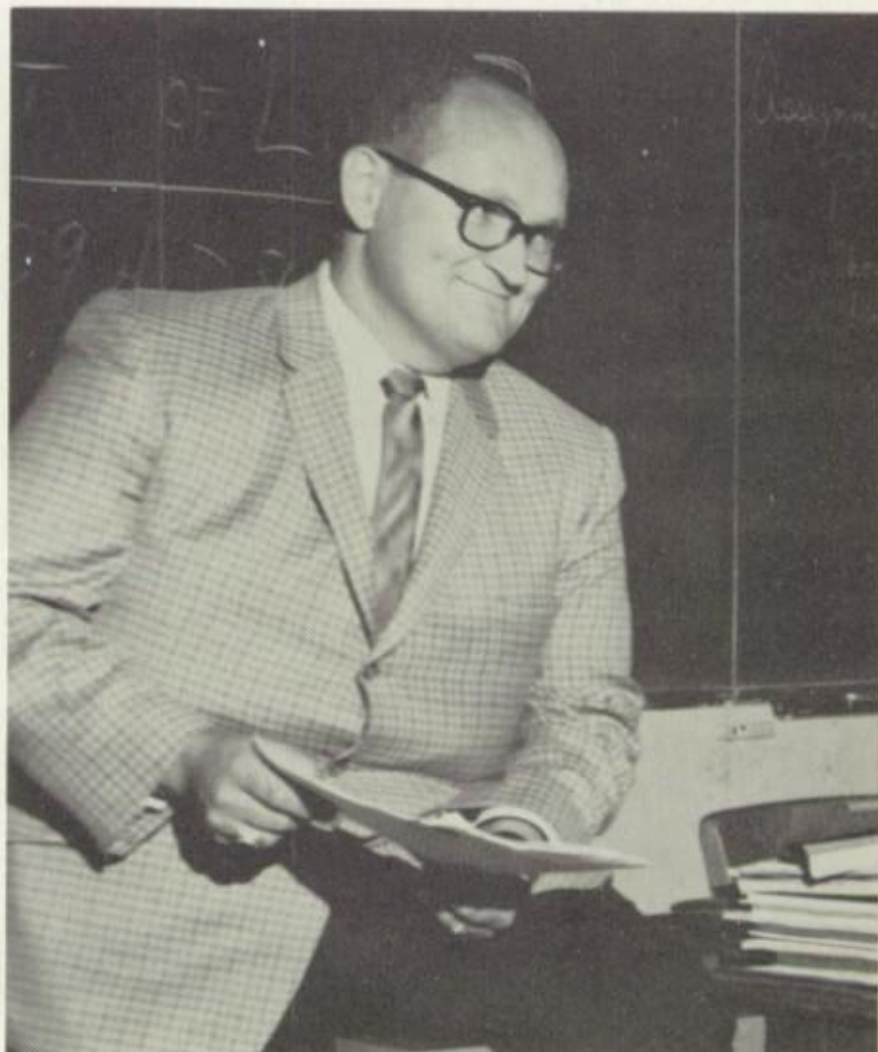

Mr. Hoffert greets his ninth grade civics class.

Will you be my Valentine?

Mr. Gebensleben surveys his class.

Mr. O'Connor queries, "Shall we go on?"

Academics

J. Fegley puzzles the class again.

Mr. Weik makes a point.

Mathematics

Mr. Brubaker at the front lines.

"And this is the IBM-202," explains Miss Brunner.

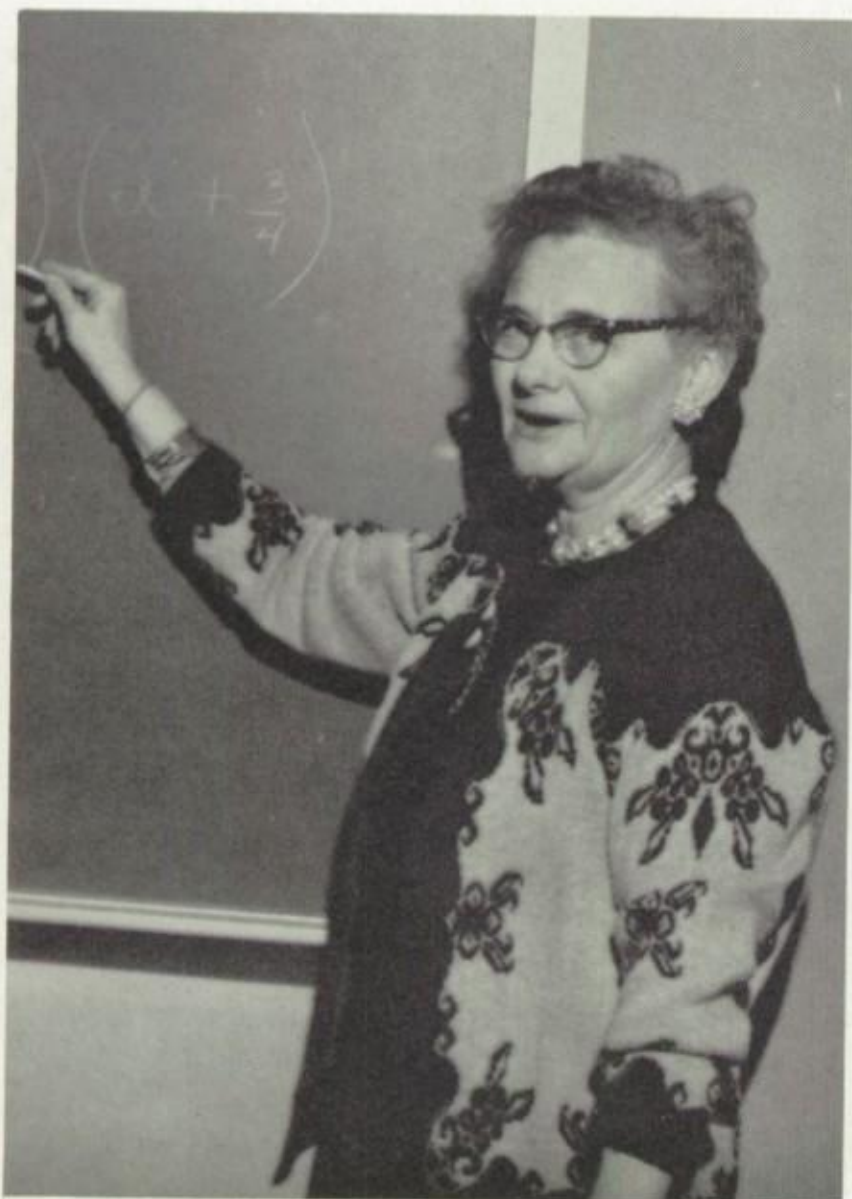

Senior high school mathematics was taught by Mr. H. Y. Brubaker and Mr. John Costenbader. Mr. Brubaker's classes studied under the traditional method, while Mr. Costenbader's students specialized in the S.M.S.G. method. Under Mr. Brubaker, tenth grade classes studied Algebra II, eleventh grade classes worked with plane and solid geometry, and twelfth grade students attended a supplementary review math course. Mr. Costenbader's ninth grade pupils began geometry in the ninth grade. In tenth grade they studied intermediate math, and in eleventh grade, advanced mathematics. Seniors in the advanced course delved into analytical geometry and calculus.

Junior high school mathematics classes were under the instruction of Mr. Clarence Weik and Miss Thelma Brunner. Miss Brunner's seventh and eighth grade classes followed the School Mathematics Study Group program very closely in the revised math course. Mr. Weik's eighth grade classes probed Concentrated Algebra I and his ninth grade pupils pursued the Science Research Association plan of programmed Algebra I.

The mathematics program has undergone a significant change which in the past year has begun to affect all mathematics classes from seventh to twelfth grade.

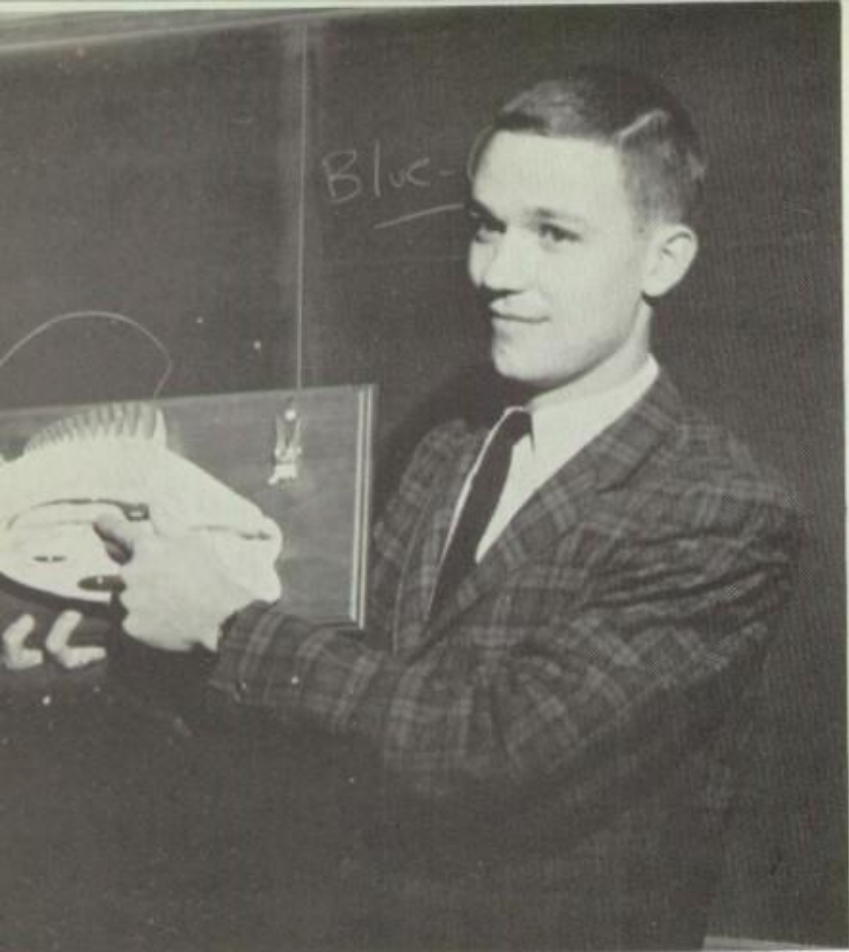

Westward ho! with Mr. Costenbader.

Mathematics made easy with Miss Brunner.

B. Anderson hears Mr. Bell's story, "We turned over the log and out jumped . . ."

Sciences

Mr. Manderbach explains the manipulation of laboratory equipment.

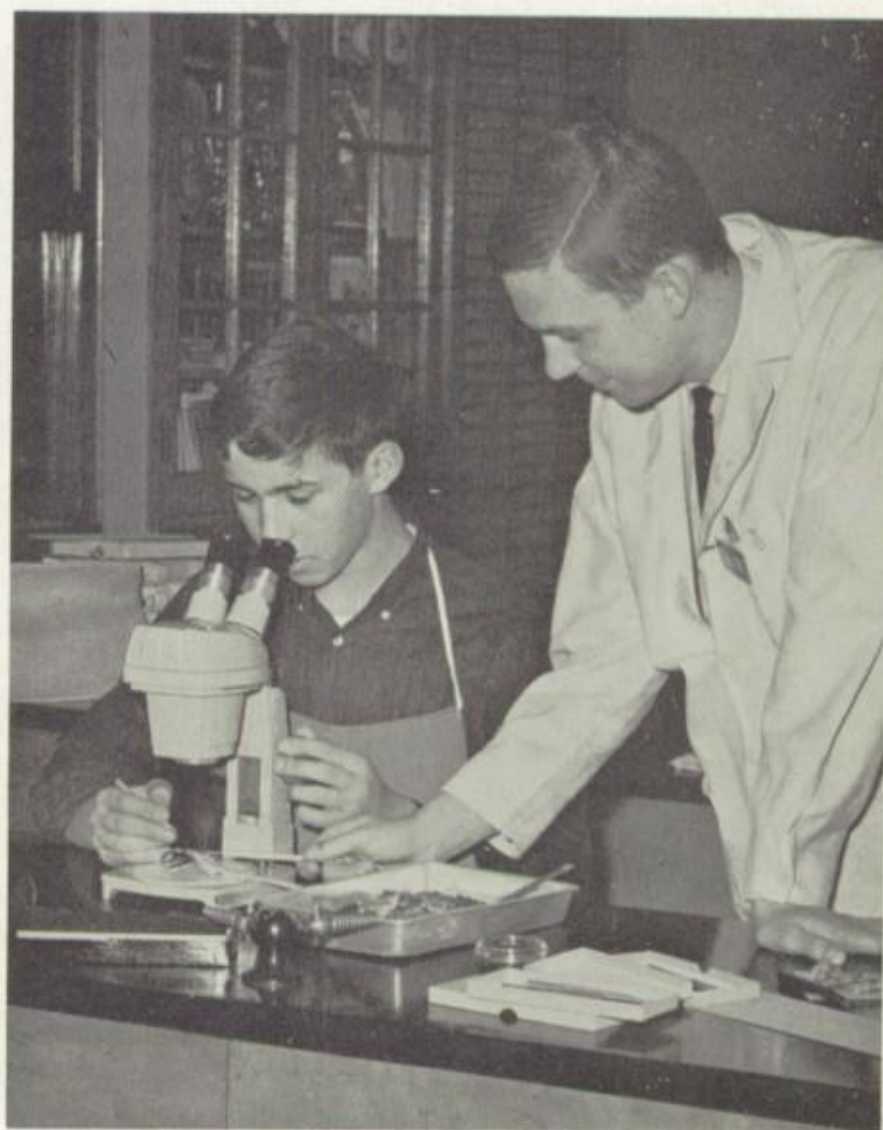

Mr. Sheetz elaborates upon Mendel's law.

This year senior science classes, taught by Mr. Clarence Weik, studied through the Science Research Associates program in which they learned practical application of science in the home and in civil defense family survival. Instructed by Mr. Charles Bell, chemistry students combined the traditional and modern approaches to science with major emphasis on bonding structure. Mr. Bell's physics pupils concentrated on problem analysis while studying the various forms of energy. General biology students, under Mr. Jesse Sheetz, gained knowledge of functions of plant and animal organisms and the principles of life activities. Mr. Ronald Dunkelberger taught his general biology pupils the traditional approach to the study of plant and animal kingdoms. For advanced biology classes, Mr. Sheetz used the Biological Science Curriculum Study emphasizing evolutionary concepts through investigation. Mr. Dunkelberger's advanced biology pupils alternated botany with zoology study supplemented by field trips and individual research. In earth and space science for eighth grade, Mr. Harry Manderbach divided his course into geology, meteorology, and astronomy sections. Mr. Manderbach's seventh grade general science classes studied organic and inorganic compounds, elements, and electricity. Mr. Dunkelberger taught a ninth grade exploratory science course in which the freshmen received introductions to biology, physics, and chemistry.

Academics

"V" for victory with Mr. Reitz.

Psychology

Mr. John Reitz again conducted an introductory psychology course for the twelfth grade. With him the seniors studied the fundamentals of psychology and sociology not only through text books, but also through oral themes dealing with current emotional and social problems, book reports on related subjects, and class discussion of theory and practical application of psychology. Now and then, professional people, well-versed in psychology, volunteered to speak to the classes about their work. Through their lectures students learned how they might become psychologists, sociologists, or psychiatrists. They also learned what to anticipate in their college psychology courses.

Business

Taught by Mr. Charles E. Goodling, students were offered business education in typing, notehand, and shorthand. Eighth grade pupils, required to take typing, learned skills necessary for advanced work in elective typing in grades nine through twelve. Notehand students developed a simple speed technique for taking notes. Mr. Goodling taught first and second year shorthand in grades ten through twelve. Shorthand pupils learned to take notes rapidly and to transcribe them accurately.

Mr. Goodling teaches shorthand to S. Sher.

Mrs. Ritter ponders the next step in L. Gustison's art project.

Art

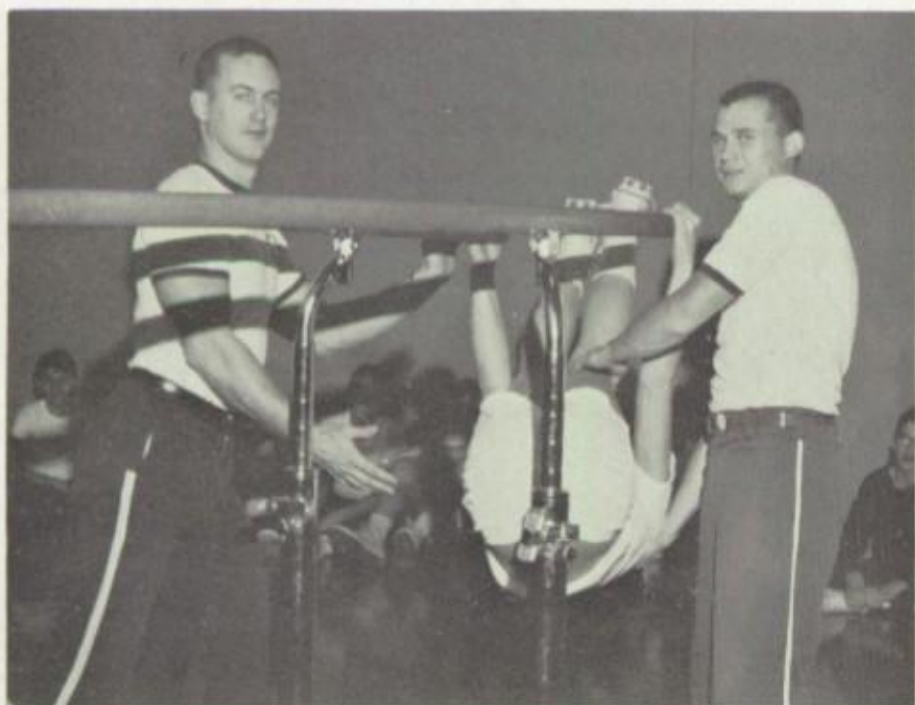

This year's art department was guided by Mrs. Bonnie Ritter. In seventh and eighth grades, in which art is required, students experimented with the basic principles of art. In ninth through twelfth grades, in which art is an elective subject, pupils engaged in advanced work in arts and crafts. Mrs. Ritter offered individual instruction and encouraged independent projects for students, especially those who planned future careers in this field and desired the extra activity.

Music

Mrs. Norman C. Hill taught music to all grades throughout the Wyomissing Area system. In the high school building seventh and eighth grades engaged in singing, musical games, and record sessions which developed music appreciation. In ninth through twelfth grades glee clubs took the place of regular music classes. The ninth grade and senior high choruses met weekly to practice for the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter presentations.

Mrs. Hill conducts a record session for a music class.

Mr. Hoffert and Mr. Gottshall instill confidence, "Just hang on, the fire department is on its way."

Hygiene

Eleventh grade girls studied hygiene as well as physical education under Mrs. Linderman. The girls learned the fundamentals of good hygiene, the functions of the human body, basic anatomy, and the causes and effects of various diseases. Besides these essentials they studied the basis for good nutrition and a supplementary course on first aid. In this course the girls practiced skills used in dealing with wounds, injuries, and illnesses and studied basic skills in home nursing. Mrs. Linderman also instructed the physical education classes for all girls in grades seven through twelve.

Physical Education

Mr. Gottshall and Mr. Hoffert provided instruction in physical education for all boys in grades seven through twelve. They instructed the boys in fundamental skills in sports such as basketball, soccer, baseball, gymnastics, and track events. They also went into advanced skills in these sports for those who wished to perfect their techniques. Boys not only worked during classes but also received aid after school hours. Mr. Gottshall and Mr. Hoffert also strove to increase the overall physical fitness among the boys through exercises and physical fitness tests.

Academics

Mrs. Heffner shows an interested R. Miller the proper method for signing out books.

Home Economics

Home Economics classes were available for girls in grades seven through twelve. In grade nine through twelve the subject was an elective. Mrs. Stover's classes studied aspects of home-making in theory and in practice. They learned the skills involved in cooking, wardrobe planning, sewing, child care, and home decorating. The girls participated in such projects as preparing meals in family units and sewing their own clothes. They also studied safety in the home, first aid techniques for home emergencies, and nursing care in case of illness in the family. The values of planning and efficiency within the family were clearly illustrated in all their projects.

Mrs. Stover explains homemaking skill to K. Nester.

E. Johnson, N. Gutacker, M. Schell, E. Nace, Mr. Arnold, B. Feger, M. Lutz, and M. Knoll serve D. Spang platter #1.

Library

Mrs. Ruhl Heffner was responsible for providing students and teachers with efficient library service. Mrs. Heffner also taught seventh grade pupils to learn how to use the library properly. The library was well-stocked with magazines, reference material, pamphlets, and fiction books, resources which pupils used before school, after school, and during study periods. Student assistants aided Mrs. Heffner in checking out books, keeping the shelves in order, and presenting an annual book sale.

Cafeteria

The cafeteria staff, headed by Mr. Arnold, again provided students and faculty with nutritious and appetizing daily lunches. Students had a choice of two main platters and additional side dishes such as fruit, salads, and juices. For an extra fee dessert was provided. The cafeteria workers were hard pressed to provide speedy service and adequate food for the huge student body. Next year's new facilities will undoubtedly make their job a much easier one, though they have carried on very well during this year.

Industrial Arts

Mr. Shirk took charge of the industrial arts classes in grades seven through nine. Here the boys learned about different types of lumber and their origins, how to work with wood, and how to construct useful as well as decorative projects. They learned methods of construction in the shop and how to operate the apparatus used there. After being instructed in the correct procedures to follow, the boys carried them out on their own through various projects. Mr. Shirk also conducted a driver education course for students in the junior class.

Mr. Shirk advises one of his students to keep his fingers out from under the file.

Mrs. A. Knappenberger peruses the latest health information.

Medical Staff

The medical staff was headed by Mrs. Annie Knappenberger, the school nurse. Mrs. Knappenberger was on call during the year in case of any accident or illness within the student body. She also administered hearing tests, eye examinations, and weight and height measurements to all students. Cooperating with Dr. Woodring she aided in physical examinations for athletes and cheerleaders. Also, with Dr. Dougherty she helped conduct dental examinations.

Custodians

The custodial staff, as usual, performed the necessary tasks for keeping the high school building clean and its facilities in their best working order. Mr. John Luekens headed the staff which also had the responsibility of keeping the campus well groomed. Special maintenance was necessary in the gymnasium, cafeteria, and auditorium. The construction of the new high school building also brought on an increased work load for the custodians since it was especially difficult to keep the grounds and building clean with the additional dirt created by construction work.

Student Council

SENIOR HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

SEATED—P. Giles, secretary. STANDING—T. Bausher, vice-president; P. Schmidt, president; B. Speicher, treasurer.

Senior High Cooperative, the student council of Wyomissing High, gives students a voice in their school government. Two representatives, chosen from each homeroom, meet every Monday, eighth period, to discuss problems of the school. This year the Cooperative was responsible for decorating the school for Christmas; a campaign for boosting school spirit, in which they sold booster buttons; operated the school store; and headed the orientation program. In addition to these annual duties, the Cooperative set out to revise its constitution to conform with the division of the Council between the Senior and Junior Highs. Other projects undertaken by the Council included: the building of a float for the Civil War Centennial on April 3, the promoting of bank day every Tuesday, and the sponsoring of the concession stand for the Pottsgrove football game. This year's Council was advised by Miss Brunner and led by Peter Schmidt, president; and Tom Bausher, vice-president, who will be succeeded by Pam Giles, president, and Andy Maier, vice-president.

FIRST ROW—D. Spang, A. Kozloff, L. Davis, J. Bertolet, C. Lorah, B. Coblentz, L. Kish. SECOND ROW—Mrs. Knipe, P. Giles, M. Jones, S. Patton, S. Dundore, B. Anderson,

M. Rogers, N. Kreitz, Miss Jones. THIRD ROW—B. Caraballo, T. Breitingner, W. Schlegel, G. Stevens, M. Kreitz, S. Evans.

International Student Committee

The International Student Committee embarked on its second year at Wyomissing High School under the leadership of Mrs. Knipe, with Judy Bertolet, chairman. The club tried to promote understanding and cordial relationships between the student body and the exchange students and, in a small way, between the nations of the world.

Late in August, the club held a picnic at the home of Mrs. Knipe to welcome Greg Winterflood. Later, when school began, they organized the assembly which presented Greg, Ligia, and Yuko to the student body. The club also presented an informative assembly in which David Spang, Arielle Kozloff, and Judy Bertolet gave talks on their recent South American trips under the auspices of the American Fellowship program. In addition, Greg Winterflood showed slides of Australia. The same type of program was presented to the P.T.A. in February. Another highlight of the year was a tea at Judy's house for all foreign students and advisers across the county. Finally, the club was successful in its campaign to sell shares in the American Field Service. The assembly the club presented stimulated such interest that the school exceeded its goal of two-hundred and fifty dollars. Thus, another foreign student for next year was financed.

J. Bertolet, chairman of the committee, serves punch to G. Winterflood at the winter tea.

FIRST ROW—L. Williams, S. Davies, B. Dinsmore, J. Coulton, M. Schaeffer, L. Berry, N. Parker, S. Wiseman, C. Williams, P. Nagle. SECOND ROW—M. J. Reber, M. Horst, B. Wiest, L. Davis, B. Bankes, J. Renken, M. Wil-

Y-Teens

Y-Teens, the senior high girls' service club, is devoted to the development of character and service to the school and the community. The club, cooperating with the Hi-Y, sponsored, "To Broadway With Love," the annual Inter-Club dance. For International Day, the members manned a game stand at the Y.W.C.A. Admissions to their Christmas project, a "Snow Carnival" dance, were cans of food, all of which went to the Salvation Army. The extensive program of activities began with the induction of new members in September. At this meeting, Miss Bonnie Jones, the teen-age director of the Y.W.C.A., spoke of the organization's world-wide activities. On Halloween, the girls went trick-or-treating for UNICEF.

At the Mother-Daughter Social held in March, the members of the club and their mothers were entertained by Miss V. Kohl, a native of East Germany. Two weeks later, the Hi-Y and Y-Teens combined their efforts and sponsored Sports Night. The Mother-Daughter Social was a new project on the Y-Teen agenda this year. The annual fashion show, sponsored by the Heather Shop, was held in May, followed by the banquet at which next year's officers were installed. Completing the social calendar in June was the Hi-Y-Teen picnic.

Mrs. Stover was the adviser. The officers were: Elizabeth Coblentz, president; Sandra Woolston, first vice-president; Susan Patton, second vice-president; Alice Coblentz, secretary; Patricia Pingel, treasurer; Judith Bertolet and Linda Jones, Fellowship House; and Maryellen Jones, chaplain.

Hi-Y

Wyomissing Hi-Y is a service and social club. Its main purpose is to create in senior boys a high moral standard, fine character, love of fellowship, and respect for leadership. With the initiation of new members, the Hi-Y began the vigorous 1964-1965 season. The first project was the paper drive in which the members canvassed the borough to collect and stack old newspapers. From the proceeds one hundred dollars is put aside as a scholarship for the student who scores the highest in a competitive examination. Another money making project was the selling of Christmas trees. In addition, the club collected discarded trees across the borough for the annual burning of the greens. Also, Hi-Y held a campout at Indiantown Gap and sponsored a basketball team in the Y.M.C.A. tournament.

Besides these individual activities the Hi-Y collaborated with the Y-Teens for many successful activities such as the Interclub dance, hoagie night, and a square dance.

All these functions were planned by the executive cabinet which consisted of: Blase Carabello, president; Bill Schlegel, vice-president; Bob Ahner, secretary; and Jim Bower, treasurer. Mr. Jesse Sheetz served as faculty adviser.

Hi-Y-Teen Service Award

The Hi-Y-Teen Service Award, one of the highest recognitions bestowed on a student, is presented each year to an outstanding senior member of both the Hi-Y and Y-Teen Clubs.

The winners, selected by the sophomore and junior members of the sponsoring clubs, are chosen on the basis of superior character, service, leadership, citizenship, school spirit, and academic achievement.

This year Blase Carabello and Elizabeth Coblentz were selected as recipients of this honor.

FIRST ROW—J. Muller, J. Allison, J. Bertolet, B. Speicher, E. Spang, B. Anderson, C. Lorah, K. Brenza, A. Coblentz, R. Miller, D. Spang. SECOND ROW—Dr. Shafer, A. Kozloff,

National Honor Society

Membership in the National Honor Society is regarded as one of the highest honors a junior or senior can obtain.

To qualify for membership juniors and seniors must rank in the first quartile of their respective classes. This group of students is then rated by members of the faculty in leadership. Membership in the society is limited to fifteen per cent of the senior class and ten per cent of the junior class.

Seniors chosen this year were: Blase Carabello, Morris Kreitz, Rory Miller, Linton Moyer, John Muller, and Robert Touhsaent. Those from the junior class were: J. Allison, C. Boyer, K. Brenza, A. Coblentz, P. Giles, K. Krissiep, S. Patton, W. Schlegel, E. Spang, and E. Speicher. Second year members of the society were: B. Anderson, J. Bertolet, B. Coblentz, J. Fegley, A. Kozloff, C. Lorah, P. Pingel, and D. Spang.

The sole function of the Society is the planning of the award assembly at which the new members are inducted into the Wyomissing Chapter, a charter member in the nation-wide organization.

Junior Town Meeting

The J.T.M. Cabinet demonstrates its might. BELOW—R. Miller, vice-president. STANDING—G. Zeller, treasurer; A. Hain, president. TOP—B. Wiest, secretary.

Junior Town Meeting, under the direction of Mr. James O'Connor, strove to develop a conscious awareness of world-wide contemporary events through enlightening discussions and debates. After the panel speakers tackled timely issues, the topic was then opened to the floor for discussion and criticism. President Andrew Hain, with the help of vice-president Betsy Wiest, secretary Rory Miller, and treasurer Gregory Zeller arranged the monthly programs. The topics ranged from international problems such as the admission of Red China to the United Nations, to local or national questions of lowering the voting age to eighteen. This possibility sparked an animated tug-of-war squabble between the teen-agers who claimed that being old enough to be drafted was tantamount to being eligible to vote, and those moderates who argued that responsibility at eighteen is not fully developed.

The annual JTM picnic climaxed the year's agenda.

Senior Foreign Relations

The Senior Foreign Relations Club, under the guidance of Mr. John Reitz, endeavored to foster a better understanding of the peoples of the world and their governments. Participating senior high school students sharpened their awareness of foreign countries, United States foreign policy, and the United Nations.

One of the highlights of the year was the annual Model United Nations Assembly at Albright College. Interested members served as delegates from the assigned countries of Brazil, Ghana, and France. During the entire session Wyomissing delegates in competition with delegates from schools throughout the county, discussed, in caucuses and the General Assembly, the financial obligations of member nations, the crisis in Cyprus, and the expansion of United Nations membership. The delegates were judged on familiarity with their countries, observance of the rules of procedure, and ability to pass resolutions.

Another highlight of the year was a field trip to New York City to see the World's Fair. These and other projects were organized by president Marilyn Rogers. Marilyn was assisted by Peter Fowler, vice-president, and Linton Moyer, secretary-treasurer.

Colophon

B. Coblentz and A. Kozloff choose the best pictures for the book.

This year, as in the past, the Colophon staff has striven toward the completion of the school's yearbook under the guidance of its advisers: Mr. Russell Milford, Mr. Charles Goodling, and Mr. D. C. Shirk.

The senior staff members, selected by class election, have throughout the past year and a half devoted themselves to the customary tasks of production, fund-raising, dummy-making, picture-snapping, cover-choosing, and finally the printing. This year's staff included: Arielle Kozloff, editor; Betsy Coblentz and James Bower, assistant editors; James Hamilton, treasurer; James Fegley, business manager; Morris Kreitz, art; Pauline Nagle and Linton Moyer, activities; Jan Coulton and Jay Zalewski, seniors; Rory Miller and David Spang, academics; Beverly Sheetz and Garrett Stevens, sports; Sandra Derr and Bill Rickenbach, underclassmen; Pat Ardrey, typing; and Alan Hawman, photography.

Fighting the on-rushing deadlines, the staff, spurred on by the generosity of the school and community, was able to publish successfully the Wyomissing High School yearbook, the Colophon.

Chieftain

Chieftain, the school newspaper, improved its format this year. Bonnie Anderson, editor-in-chief, was aided by Karen White, assistant editor; Ruhl Heffner, business manager; and Ann Ruth, typing editor. Mrs. Helen Houck, Mr. Charles Goodling, and Mrs. Jeanne Miller served as advisers.

The annual subscription drive, featuring the play, "Gutenberg's Press," sparked unparalleled interest in the paper and caused an abundant surplus in the treasury. The Chieftain's other money-making endeavors for the year included the concession stand at the Bridgeport football game, the candy stand at all home basketball games, and the St. Valentine's Day dance on February 13.

With the surplus in the treasury the Chieftain expanded upon its usual coverage of important school happenings, sports news, club activities, and thumb-nail sketches of seniors. New columns included a fashion insert, printing of the honor roll, and "Clyde, the Classhopper," a feature devoted to humorous school happenings. Other aids to the paper were Bonnie's topical editorials and the appearance of many contests. In one such contest the staff awarded a prize to the homeroom which came closest to the correct number of anachronisms in the Chieftain play.

F.T.A. CABINET

SEATED—M. McShane, treasurer. STANDING—C. Lorah, president; K. Peters, vice-president; E. Spang, secretary.

The Wyomissing division of the Future Teachers of America club gives members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes an opportunity to explore the many aspects of a teaching career. The members are annually invited to teach and to observe the various methods of presentation at both the elementary and the secondary levels. Through actual experience, the club's members are able to grasp the values and rewards of this important profession.

This year the dinner meeting was held at the Holiday Inn. The speaker, a Reading High School teacher, told some of her unusual experiences in working with young people. At another meeting, Gregory Winterflood, the foreign exchange student, contrasted American school life to that of Australia. The members were also invited to attend the county F.T.A. meeting at Mt. Penn High School to exchange ideas with other future teachers.

This year's club was under the direction of Miss Brunner, with the officers: Carol Lorah, president; Kathy Peters, vice-president; Beth Spang, secretary; and Midge McShane, treasurer.

Future Nurses of America

Future Nurses of America is a club organized to enlighten interested senior high girls in the joys and techniques of nursing. During the monthly meetings the girls heard guest speakers and viewed many films. The club attempted to show that nursing would be a satisfactory alternative to college. Beside the monthly meetings, the club, under the direction of Mrs. Knappenberger, together with the officers, Judy Bertolet, president; Margaret Reiniger, vice-president; Carol Lorah, secretary; and Alice Coblentz, treasurer, worked hard to plan outside activities. These included a field trip, a tour of Reading Hospital, and the decorating of the children's ward at the Community General Hospital. The social highlight of the year was a dance, "Operation Blackboard," which was planned in cooperation with the Future Teachers of America.

Language Clubs

Both the members of the Spanish and the French Clubs strove to gain a better understanding of their respective countries by investigating their customs.

El Club Español, led by "Guillermo" Rickenbach and advised by Señora Knipe had a vigorous schedule highlighted by the Christmas party. Before the party each member bought for another member an inexpensive gift that was exchanged at the fiesta. However, Jan Coulton's attempt to break the piñata was the high point of the night. Besides the fiesta, the Spanish Club saw movies, held a treasure hunt, with

The French Club also enjoyed a busy program. Among the highlights of the year was a trip to New York City where the members saw the Cannes Film Festival winner, "Les Parapluies de Cherbourg." The club also sold over two hundred tickets to the French movie, "That Man from Rio," which was seen by the members at a local theatre. Other activities arranged by the adviser, Miss Jones, included: a progressive dinner in which French delicacies were sampled, a Christmas party, a scrabble contest, and a closing picnic. The officers were: Jim Fegley, president; Pete Braun, vice-president; Judy Benkert, secretary; and Sandy Derr, treasurer.

SEMBOWER CONTESTANTS

Sembower Oratorical Contest

Pam accepts congratulations from Dr. Shafer, Mr. Boehm, and Mr. O'Connor.

The Sembower Oratorical Contest has its origin in a grant made to the school in the memory of Guy Knowlton Sembower, a member of the Class of 1931, who died in his freshman year. The contest rules provide that each contestant be a senior high school student, and compose and deliver from memory an original speech of 1000 to 1500 words. Each year, the contestants are selected and coached by Mr. Milford.

This year, the entrants and their topics were: Susie Patton, The Status Seekers; Marianne Marx, Automation; Pam Giles, The Pressure on Today's Youth; Kathy Bradley, Exploring Inner Space; Debbie Comey, The Unknown World of the Future; Jackie Allison, The Violence in Our Streets; Beth Spang, The Warren Court; and Scott Sutton, You Can Always Trust Communists To Be Communists. Mark Scheneman served as moderator.

The judges, Dr. Shafer, Mr. Boehm, and Mr. O'Connor, awarded the first prize of five dollars to Pam Giles, the second prize of three dollars to Scott Sutton, and the third prize of two dollars to Jackie Allison.

Mr. Gebensleben, R. Kauffman, A. Tomalonis, P. Fowler, M. Scheneman.

Debate Team

The debate team, directed by Mr. Charles Gebensleben, is organized in January of each year. The purpose of the club is to participate in interscholastic debates with Governor Mifflin and Wilson High Schools.

The theme of this year's debate was "Weapons Control," as it concerned the nuclear disarmament treaty. Actually, as has been the recent trend, the debates were more in the form of a discussion than formal debates. The opinions of the individual club members were voiced rather than the opinion of the club as a whole. On March 3, 1965, at Wyomissing, Peter Fowler and Robert Kauffman discussed their opinion in relation to the international situation. Peter stated that, because of the nature of man, complete disarmament of nuclear weapons always will be impossible. Robert Kauffman felt that nuclear control will eventually be achieved. Mark Scheneman and Michael Homcha spoke at Wilson on Friday, March 5. The year was closed after Kathleen Alley and Alexandria Tomalonis spoke at Governor Mifflin on March 10.

Public Relations

D. Scully and J. Bertolet check "copy" for the next edition of West Side News.

The Public Relations Committee took charge of school publicity. Its purpose was to acquaint the public with the various activities of Wyomissing High School. The majority of these articles was published in the West Side News. A few were in the Reading Eagle or Reading Times.

Articles concerning assemblies, club projects, the four foreign students — Ligia, Yuko, Greg, and Alex — sports, student teachers, and awards to Wyomissing students were published. Mrs. Ruhl Heffner, as the faculty adviser, supervised the writing and publishing. The student chairman, Judith Bertolet, worked with Mrs. Heffner in planning and executing the articles. Other members included Carol Lorah, Betsy Coblentz, Rory Miller, Ellen Smith, Tacie Grubb, Diane Scully, Myra Farrell, Marianne Marx, Morris Kreitz, David Schmidt, Ann Forry, Heather Thomas, Jonnie Miller, Joanne Miuccio, Brian Saylor, and Marty Mellinger.

The Directors Club, under the leadership of Louise Davis, president; Ann Hemmerich, vice-president; and Charlotte Parsons, secretary and treasurer, meets the first Wednesday of each month. The faculty adviser was originally Mrs. John Williams, and later Mr. Becker, who came to Wyomissing in mid-term. The purpose of the club is to become better acquainted with stage techniques including makeup, voice tone, pantomime and gesture, setting, and characterization.

Last January, members of the club attended the play Monique presented by the Albright College Drama Club. In addition, the members were active in producing, directing, and participating in school assemblies. In the spring, the members planned to produce a one-act play at an assembly or evening performance with the aid of Mrs. June Parsons.

The Library Club, a service organization that aids Mrs. Heffner in administering the school library, was headed by Rory Miller, president; Margaret Reiniger, vice-president; Marta Schlegel, secretary; and Myra Farrell, treasurer.

The club trained interested students from ninth through twelfth grades in library work, and sent representatives to the Teenage Library Association Conference, held this year at Schuylkill Valley Area High School. The members learned the intricacies of checking the flow of books, the card catalog, and the reference files. Club members also designed and arranged displays in the hall show cases.

On February ninth, the Library Club held its annual tea, to which the faculty members, the administration, and the foreign students were invited. The Sean David Trio, a folksinging group composed of club members Charlotte Parsons, Rory Miller, and Marilyn Jean Rogers, entertained the guests. In June the club also held a picnic at the Stone House. Mrs. Heffner served as the club's adviser.

Band

The Wyomissing High School Band, under the direction of Mr. William H. Levan, has continued to grow in the past year. In addition to high school members, the band now boasts some grade school students. Fifth and sixth graders supplement the main band in evening performances and on the football field. Also, Mr. Levan instructed other grade school students for future membership in the organization.

This year for the second time, the band played marches and pep songs at the home football games. They also learned many new songs for the Spring Concert. Every Thursday and Friday morning at 7:30 they met in the Music Room to perfect their presentations.

Dale Fallon, president; Edward Schell, vice-president; and Jay Zalewski, secretary, have high hopes for the band's future. Next year, with new uniforms, they will begin marching as well as playing at football games. Many new members from the grade school will be added.

Chorus

Mrs. Hill prepares for an assembly with S. Patton and S. Dundore.

The Senior High chorus, directed by Mrs. Norman Hill, meets regularly every Tuesday at 2:35 in the music room. The purpose of the organization is to perfect their presentations given at the annual Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter assemblies. Also, there is a special evening performance in which the chorus takes part.

This year, in the Evening of Music, the senior high chorus presented an informal sing. All phases of American music were featured: folk-music, Negro spirituals, Broadway music, semi-religious, and music for fun. The highlight of the evening was the audience participation in the finale. Other selections included, Climb Every Mountain, Round 'N Round, Who Built de Ark, and I Gave My Love a Cherry. In the Christmas program the chorus emphasized semi-religious songs besides the traditional hymns and carols.

Assemblies

Mr. Dan Murphy explains the Mendelian theory.

This year the Assembly Committee, an affiliate of the Student Co-operative and led by its vice-president, Thomas Bausher, arranged an interesting series of programs. Those involving student participation included: the Chieftain play, "Gutenberg's Press;" the Junior High Dramatics play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals;" the lively junior and senior high talent shows; the mock election assembly; the American Field Service assembly; and the annual Christmas and Easter Programs.

The committee also scheduled a stimulating array of outside assemblies which included: an educational presentation of the "History of the Theater" by the noted Broadway actor, John Scanlan; a suspenseful program presented by Kurt Singer concerning espionage; and an informative presentation by Dan Murphy entitled "The Marvels of Biology."

Chess Club

D. Dunlap and G. Eves ponder their positions as J. Hertzog and J. Cramp offer advice.

The origins of chess have been traced to pre-Christian India and China; from there the game spread through Europe, where it was known as the game of kings. It employs two kings, two queens, four bishops, four knights, four rooks, sixteen pawns, patience and an analytical mind. With the formation this year of a school Chess Club, the Royal Game found many adherents.

President, George Eves; vice-president, Don Dunlap; treasurer, James Cramp; and secretary, John Hertzog headed the club.

During the first few monthly meetings of the Chess Club, an in-club tournament was conducted to determine the relative levels of skill of the members. When this round of games was concluded, plans were made for tournaments with chess clubs from other schools.

Under the guidance of Mr. Costenbader, the club members also studied the strategy and history of chess, and improved their playing skills.

The Junior High Cooperative, which was comprised of two members from each homeroom in the seventh to ninth grades, existed as a separate entity for the first time this year. The eighth and ninth grade representatives and salesmen were elected last year, as were the officers: president, Robert Golden; vice-president, Peter Schlegel; treasurer, Steven Alley; and secretary, Elizabeth Riley. This was also the first year that the student body had the opportunity to choose all the Cooperative officers. Prior to this year, the secretary and the treasurer were elected within the group.

The Junior High Cooperative sponsored two dances, the "Snowflake Swing" on January 9, 1965, and a dance for grades seven through ten on the night of the Junior Prom.

They also sponsored the Warriors, a boys' pep club that performed at home basketball games. The salesmen sold Warrior stickers in the homerooms, and used the proceeds to buy material for Indian costumes.

Miss Brunner and Mr. Noll served as advisers to the Junior High Co-op.

Blue Triangle, a service organization for eighth and ninth grade girls, is a club affiliated with the YWCA. It is the junior high counterpart of Y-Teens.

The cabinet consisted of: Debborah Spang, president; Cynthia Schumo, vice-president; Karen Smith, treasurer; and Heather Thomas, secretary. At the monthly meetings plans were made and activities discussed. Mrs. Engle spoke to the club members on make-up at their November meeting. In December the club held a Christmas party. The girls saw the movie "Susan Slept Here" in the auditorium and went down to the cafeteria for refreshments afterwards. In March, the club sponsored a dance for junior high school students. The annual service project was planned for April.

Blue Triangle helps to prepare girls for a meaningful adult life. It trains them in service and helps them to mature through helping others by instilling in them the YWCA's ideal of Christian life.

Mrs. Schrack served as adviser to the club.

The Junior Hi-Y, directed by Mr. Clarence Weik, composed of seventh through ninth grade boys, is the younger version of Hi-Y. The boys are led by Steve Schlegel, president; Eric Shafer, vice-president; Robert Golden, secretary; and Michael Chaknos, treasurer. Since the club is sponsored through the Young Men's Christian Association, each meeting is opened with a prayer read by Thomas Willson.

This year, the Junior Hi-Y purchased a neck microphone for the school's use. Other activities included: a scrap metal drive, the Club Continental dance for the junior high students, a campout at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, trips to a Hershey hockey game and a basketball exhibition by the Globe Trotters, a junket to Philadelphia for a Phillies baseball game, and a sales drive of school license plates.

M. Chaknos proudly shows S. Schlegel one of the bumper plates he sold for Junior Hi-Y.

Junior Dramatics Club

C. Soussloff, V. Johnston, and D. Hill enter the auditorium on their way to a Dramatics Club meeting.

The Junior Dramatics Club met every Monday morning this year to study the various aspects of live theater. Under the direction of Mrs. Williams, the club studied diction, characterization, make-up, and effective movement on stage.

In December, the club staged James Barrie's one act play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals." Set in World War I London, the play concerned a charlady who, to impress her friends, pretended to have a son fighting in the war. To lend substance to her ruse, she sent letters and packages to a soldier she did not know. The soldier surprised her by visiting her on leave and going along with her deception. Before he died, he brought light into her life as she had into his. Cast members were: Sheri Buzby, Marilyn Becker, Kathy Boynton, Linton Moyer, Pat Perfect, and Andrew Nagel.

Club officers were: president, Kathy Soussloff; vice-president, Leslie Hill; treasurer, Pat Perfect; and secretary, Virginia Johnston.

The Reverend William Becker became adviser to the club in February.

Junior Foreign Relations Club

In the second year of its existence, the Junior Foreign Relations Club continued to provide a forum for debate and opinion for the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. Debating topics such as Russia's voting rights in the United Nations during their monthly meetings, the club members had the opportunity to form and express their views.

Besides debating, the club presented a quiz program to a junior high assembly. Modeled after the G.E. College Bowl, the show pitted the boys against the girls and the eighth grade against the ninth grade. The boys and the eighth grade emerged victorious.

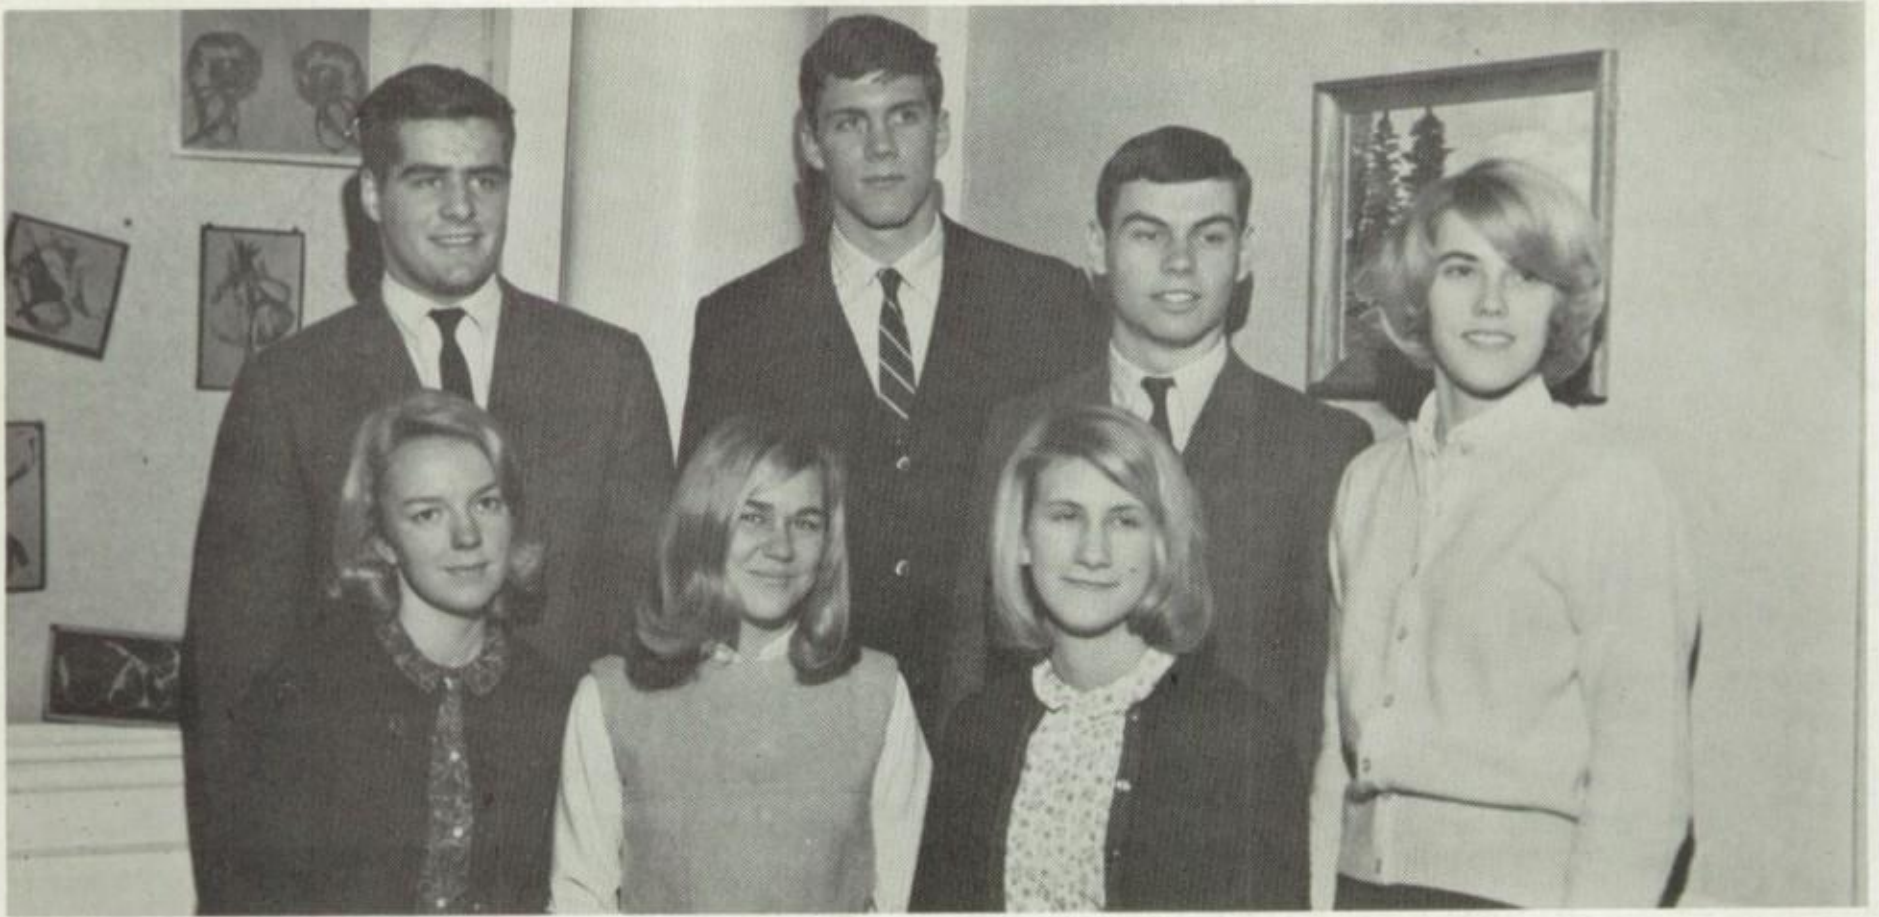

In addition, the club studied the purpose and organization of the United Nations and planned a trip to the World's Fair.

The group was led by Robert Golden, president; Eric Shafer, vice-president; and Sheri Buzby, secretary-treasurer. As adviser to the club, Mr. Leonard Noll helped members relate current events to their studies.

Junior-Senior Prom

Led by the president of the junior class, Bill Schlegel, the prom committee worked hard in the production of this year's Junior-Senior Prom. Other members of the committee were: Bunny Stauffer, head of the decorations committee; Pam Giles, in charge of refreshments; Jim Kunkelman, chairman of invitations and favors; and Wendy Hayes, in charge of the table cloth and centerpieces. "Aloha," the title of the dance, was a tribute to the senior's farewell to high school. It took place in the tropical atmosphere of the Berkshire Country Club ballroom on the evening of May 21. This mood was further created by the music of the Tillman-Fisher Orchestra.

The annual Hi-Y-Teen's semi-formal dance Inter-Club was held November 21, 1964, with the theme of "To Broadway with Love." Pat Pingel and Jim Bower supervised the planning for the dance.

Committee chairmen were: refreshments, Barbara Curry; music, Robert Kauffman, ceiling decorations, Bill Rickenbach; table decorations, Sandy Derr; tables, Pete Schmidt; window decorations, Carol Lorah; publicity, Sherry Speicher; and the mural, Morris Kreitz.

This mural, the joint labor of seniors and juniors, showed a night time view of Broadway. The table and window decorations also carried out this theme. After weeks of preparation, the committee was rewarded for its labors by a highly successful evening in the transformed all-purpose room of the grade school.

The committee's mentors were Mrs. Stover and Mr. Sheetz.

Foreign Students

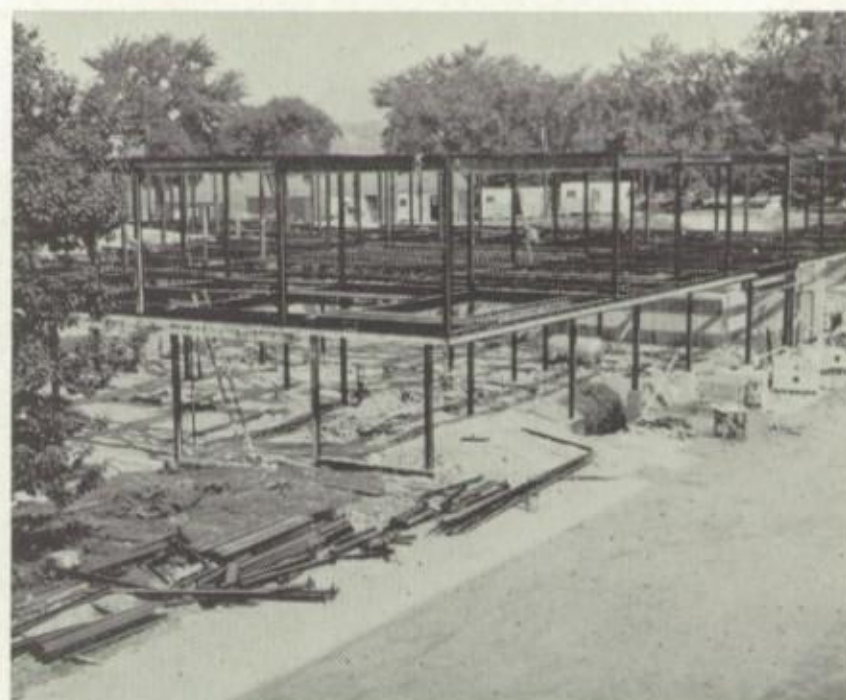

Wyomissing High School welcomed three international students to this year's senior class. The first to arrive through the auspices of the American Field Service was Gregory Winterflood from Maryborough, Australia. Greg, who stayed with Morris Kreitz and his family, quickly became a member of the student body. Although his school day consisted mostly of senior classes, he also studied biology and typing. As an expert impromptu speaker, Greg skillfully spoke in assemblies, to school clubs and various community organizations.

Ligia Clavijo, an International Fellowship Student from Cucuta, Colombia, arrived in September. Although Lee, as she was nicknamed, could speak little English when she came, students, especially Spanish pupils, found her friendly as well as helpful. As an avid music fan, Lee was also interested in horseback riding and bowling. In February, she danced a Colombian dance at a P.T.A. meeting.

Unexpectedly, in December, another international student came to Wyomissing. Yukiko Araki, who was the guest of the Coblentz family, arrived from Nagasaki, Japan. With her peppy personality Yuko quickly won many friends. A talented singer, she was selected to sing in the County Chorus and during the year performed in assemblies and for community organizations.

Changing Campus

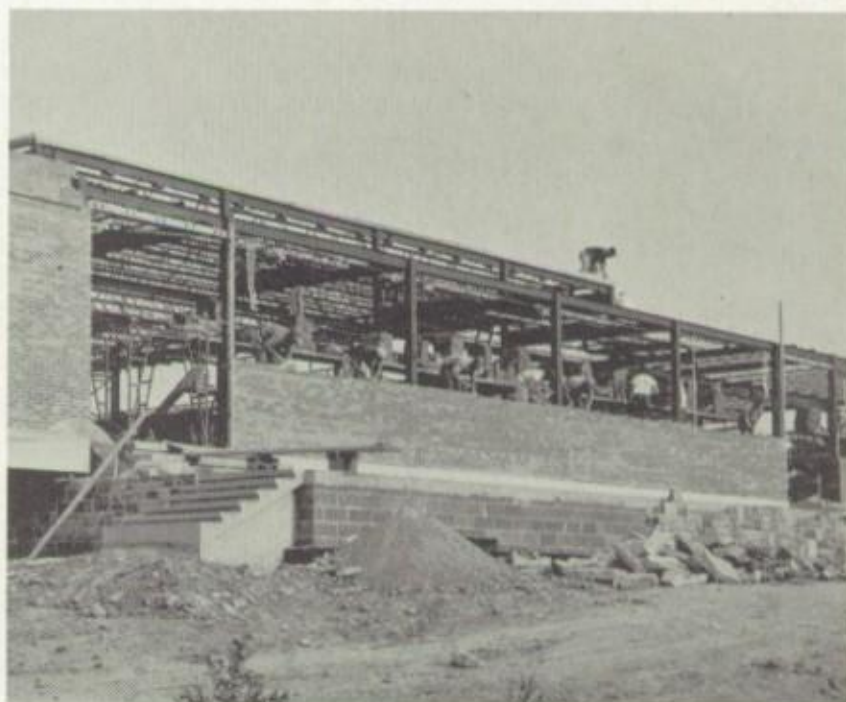

This year Wyomissing High School was the scene of construction of a new music building and senior high addition. Built by Muhlenberg Bros., the music wing was completed for use during the fall months. Although the senior high addition is projected for completion by September of this year, the cafeteria is scheduled for use before the summer vacation.

The new music building, a much needed addition, is already serving many useful purposes. Designed to resemble the main school building in color and architecture, the music wing contains a spacious room for band and chorus rehearsals, as well as instrument closets and practice rooms. The building also provides ample classroom space.

Yet to be completed, the senior high addition is also intended to reflect the main building. The basic plan and style was determined when members of the faculty and administration visited other recently constructed schools and observed their design and interior layout. Accommodating only senior high classes, the new building will include a large cafeteria for both junior and senior high, while the present cafeteria will be redesigned for classroom space.

The main floor of the new building will be arranged according to area of study. In this way there will be three rooms assigned to each of social studies, science, mathematics, English, and languages. As an innovation to the language department, a language laboratory will be included where students may study individually.

Also intended for the new building is a large group discussion room. Here teachers may conduct joint class lectures, as well as present pertinent movies or film strips. In addition to class rooms will be a large library. And as a special point of interest the library as well as part of the English department, will face an open court yard in the center of the building.

SEASON'S SUMMARY

On August 18, 1964, long before the crowds cheered and the bands played, football was begun at Wyomissing. Three weeks of drills and play-running to an exhaustive degree preceded the Warriors' initial contest. It was then that football players and young men were molded.

The Big Blue's first opponents were the Schwenksville Bluebirds. The game was a defensive battle. Schwenksville scored first. But the Warriors evened it up in the third stanza on a three-yard pass from Mike Rice to Bob Ahner. Final score was 6-6. In the second game against Jenkintown, Bob Ahner scored the lone tally as Wyomissing went down, 18-6. Exeter was the Warriors' third adversary. Pete Schmidt scored on a fifty-yard aerial from Mike Reinsel and added the extra point. Bob Ahner received another toss from Reinsel and cashed in from thirty yards out. The score at the gun was 27-13, Exeter. Pottsgrove, a league contender, battled the Warriors in their next contest. John Costenbader scored for Wyomissing on an eighty-yard punt return. This was the only Warrior six as the Big Blue tumbled, 45-7.

In the Warriors' fifth game, Daniel Boone scored fourteen points in the first half and held the Warrior offense in check. In the second half the Warriors played the Blazers to a standoff. The final score, however, was 14-0, Daniel Boone. The Warriors met Lower Moreland next. Wyomissing just could not beg, borrow, or steal a touchdown and lost 13-0. The Big Blue had gone through six games without a victory and time was running out. A highly-touted Collegeville-Trappe team provided the competition for the Warriors in their seventh contest. In the first half, Tom Bausher scored on a twelve-yard flip by Bill Schlegel, who replaced Wyomissing's four injured signal callers. John Costenbader ran thirty yards to paydirt with an interception, and Pete Schmidt kicked the important point after. The second half saw the Colonels get three quick scores and take the lead 18-13. Undaunted, the Warriors staged a late drive which was capped with a five-yard sprint for the six by John Costenbader. The final total found the Warriors on top 19-18 for their first victory. In the final contest of the year, the Warriors met Bridgeport. The Dragons drew first blood, but the Warriors were not to be denied this final victory. John Costenbader opened the Big Blue scoring with a seventy-yard punt return. Tom Bausher hauled in a pass from Bill Schlegel and literally fought his way in from ten yards out. Guard Robert Kauffman scored the Warriors' last two points of the season on a safety. Wyomissing's final record was two wins, five losses, and one tie.

*—Exhibition games.

On November 1, 1964, the managers broke out the equipment. Basketballs and uniforms were pulled out of storage. The basketball season had begun. Expectations were high around Wyomissing. The entire starting five was returning along with a talented combination of jayvees. All signs pointed to a solid league contender.

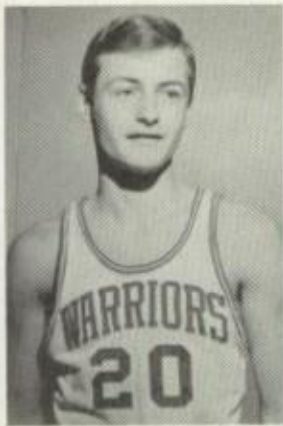

Wyomissing won its first eight games in succession. Among the victims were: Daniel Boone, at the Jack Flowers Memorial Tournament at the Albright field house; West Reading; and Hamburg, division champions last season. The bubble burst as the Big Blue dropped four vital league games and one exhibition contest. The Warriors blasted out of their slump by bombing arch rival West Reading. Three more victories were over Tulpehocken, Hamburg, and Schuylkill Valley. The season ended in agony. Wyomissing lost its final three games and just missed an endorsement to compete in the Class C state play-offs. The varsity's league record was 9-7, and overall the Warriors won twelve and lost eight.

Several Warriors were standouts during the 1964-65 campaign. The starting quintet, composed of three juniors and two seniors, included: Pete Mohn and Bruce Newton in the backcourt, David Ahner and James Fegley at forward, and Thomas Bausher at center. Ready substitutes were: William Schlegel, Peter Miller, and Buddy Scholar. Leading point producer for the Big Blue was James Fegley, who finished fifth in league scoring with 250 markers and a 15.6 average. Next was Thomas Bausher. He finished tenth with 202 points and a 12.6 average. Rebounding chores were handled by Bausher, Fegley, and William Schlegel.

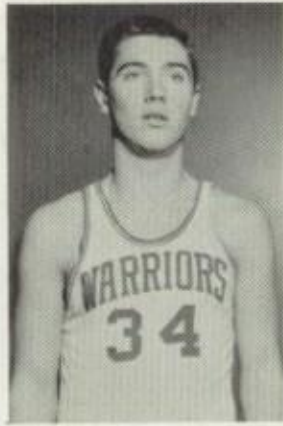

Coach of the Warriors was Mr. Thomas Aubrey. In his initial season Coach Aubrey led the Warriors to a 6-16 season. This year the Warriors improved to 12-8 overall.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Participation in junior varsity basketball prepared juniors, sophomores, and freshmen for varsity competition, and, in addition, provided them with an opportunity to participate in interscholastic contests. These underclassmen were instructed in the basic fundamentals of basketball. The junior varsity schedule consisted of sixteen league and three exhibition games.

The five starting cagers included: Pete Mogel, Randy Bertollette, Phil Smith, Jan Burkey, and Pete Bausher. Andy Maier, Kerry Adams, Ray Dinsmore, and Mike Homcha were ready substitutes. The two leading scorers were Pete Bausher, who tallied 160 points and Pete Mogel, who gunned in 144 markers. The team's leading rebounders were Pete Bausher and Phil Smith.

Mr. Jesse Sheetz continued in his capacity as junior varsity coach. The team compiled a five-win eleven-lost slate. Against all competition the junior varsity's record was five wins and fourteen losses.

Cheerleaders

The varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders played an important role in the encouragement of total participation and sportsmanship through the 1964-65 sports season.

The fall season found the girls decorating the goal posts for the Warriors' home football games, and performing various half-time activities which added color to the brisk fall atmosphere.

During the basketball season the varsity cheerleaders opened the "big" games with an original dance routine. Senior co-captains of this squad were Betsy Wiest and Sandy Woolston. Other members were: Pam Giles, Jackie Allison, Karen Rhoads, Susie Berry, and Kathy Peters.

Members of the junior varsity basketball squad were: Captain Sandra Stump, Gini Boekenkroeger, Nancy Muller, Jill Brossman, Myra Farrell, Pat Dunlap, and Ellen Ludwig.

Members of both groups participated in a cheerleading clinic which was held at Hamburg High School. Both squads, under the leadership of Mrs. Linderman, organized pep-rallies which were held in the gym for the entire student body.

JUNIOR WARRIORS

"Sachem" Hoffert aided by "Chief" Jerry Andrews released from the reservation a group of seventh grade Warriors who voiced their war whoops and performed authentic tribal dances during the basketball halftime period. The junior scalp collectors were captained by Timothy Weaver.

Track

T. Bausher clears bar.

The track team, under the direction of Mr. Donald Gottshall, began workouts in late winter, although the season officially got underway in March. Mr. Gottshall based his pre-season optimism on lettermen James Kunkelman, Tom Klein, Joseph Bruce, David Steinrock, Bruce Newton, and Tom Bausher. The track team finished second in its league last year, to Oley, with a record of three wins and one loss.

Practice-meets with Lebanon, Cocalico Union, Conrad Weiser, Ephrata, and Kutztown were held in the early months of preparation. Wyomissing had three dual meets with West Reading, Oley, and Mount Penn. Four county meets were held during the season. Post-season competition included the District Three meet and the state meet.

Standouts in senior high track included: Tom Klein, 880 yard run; Joseph Bruce, low hurdles and 220 yard dash; David Steinrock, 440 yard dash; Ed Schell, two mile run; John Sternbergh, javelin; Bruce Newton, 100 yard dash, high hurdles, and low hurdles; Thomas Bausher, high jump and pole vault; and James Kunkelman, javelin, shotput, and discus.

Cross Country

Last year, for the first time in Wyomissing cross-country history, the team won a meet. This year's edition greatly improved upon that performance. The Warrior team was in contention for the league crown during the greater part of the season. The eight Warrior victims were: Wilson, 25-30; Hamburg, 15-40; Twin Valley, 17-38; Schuylkill Valley, 21-34; and Oley, 20-35. The two losses were to Governor Mifflin, 38-17; and Exeter, 31-24. Several Wyomissing runners placed well in the County meet held at Governor Mifflin High School.

David Steinrock, Michael Geissler, John Jones, and Captain Thomas Klein formed the nucleus of Coach Donald Gottshall's charges. These boys, through hard work and training, approached and surpassed the goals they had set at the season's start. Credit must be given to Mr. Gottshall for his coaching efforts and to the team members themselves for their performance. This year's showing established cross-country as an up-coming sport at Wyomissing.

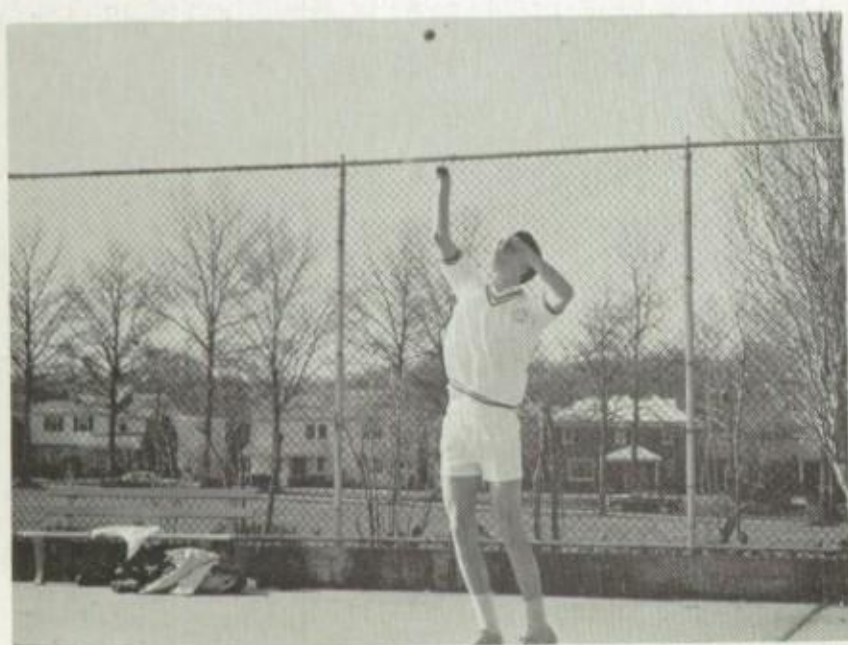

Dave Steinrock pushes on and on.

Tennis

The coming of spring was accompanied, as usual, by the sound of Wyomissing "racqueteers" practicing on the asphalt courts at the athletic field. The team, coached by Mr. Gebensleben, included four returning lettermen: Ralph Berry, William Rickenbach, David Berry, and Thomas Breitingner. Fourteen league and five exhibition matches composed the Warrior netmen's schedule. Following the regular season, members of the Big Blue tennis combination competed in two tournaments. The first was the Berks County Tennis Tournament. In the District Three Tournament the best singles and doubles players were selected to play in the state tournament. Wyomissing hopes were centered on Ralph Berry and William Rickenbach. Members of the tennis team included Alan Hawman and Paul Dries.

There must be something in the rule-book about this.

Golf

Golf, which was initiated at Wyomissing a few years ago, started in May. Coach John Reitz had four returning lettermen: Linton Moyer, Robert McCullough, Thomas Ludwig, and John Hain. The captain of the Warriors team was Linton Moyer, who also played first-man. Backing the lettermen up were Robert Touhsaent, James Fegley, and David Spang. Six contests in the southern division of the Berks Golf League composed the regular schedule. Matches were played against: Daniel Boone, Muhlenberg, Conrad Weiser, Schuylkill Valley, Kutztown, and Fleetwood. Post-season tournaments were three in number. First on May 3, was the Berks County Tournament. Then the District 3 playoffs were held on May 14. The state finals were on May 21, 22, and 23. Mr. Thomas Aubrey assisted Mr. Reitz in leading the Warrior golfers around the links.

Baseball

Mr. Dunkelberger — Mr. Noll

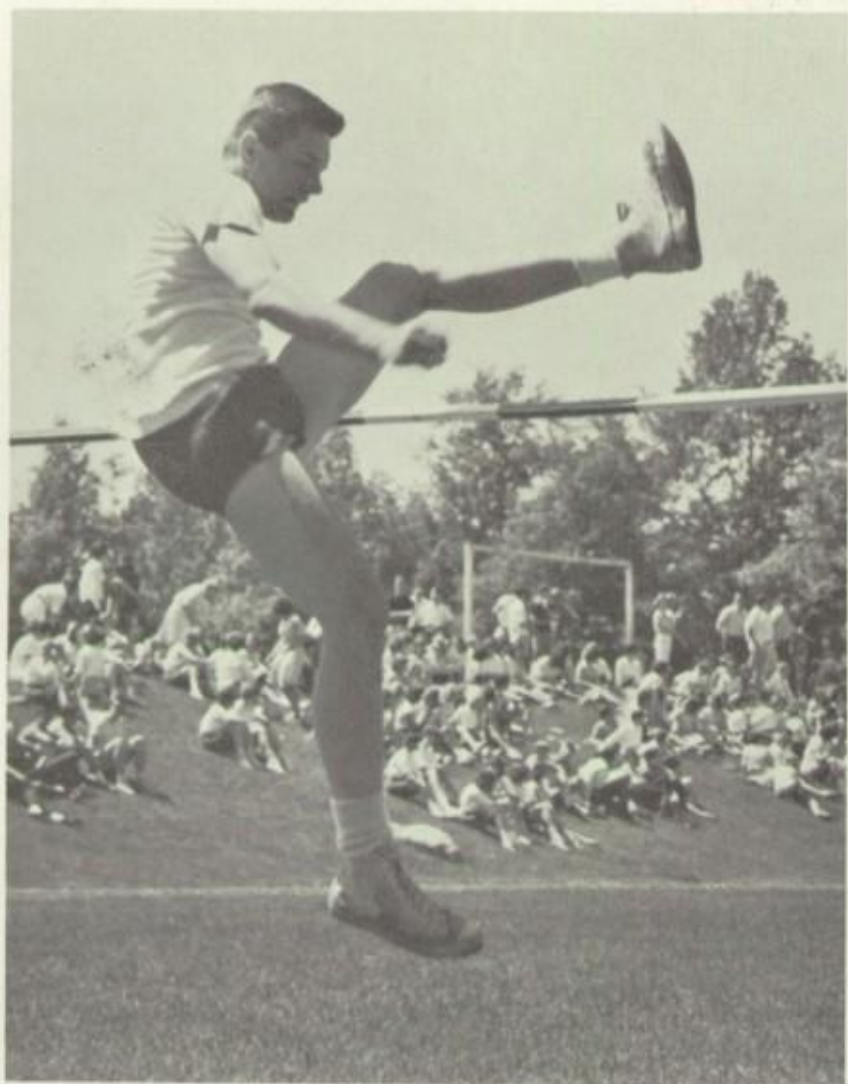

The Wyomissing Varsity baseball team began its drills in early spring. Calisthenics, sprints and conditioning laps rounded the players into shape. The athletes faced their season with optimism and eagerness.

The starting nine usually consisted of six seniors and three juniors. At first was Carl Riley. Robert Scholar held down the second base job. Peter Mohn stopped grounders at short stop. On the hot corner was David Ahner. In left field Timothy Steinrock shagged the pop-ups. Accompanying him were Jay Zalewski, center fielder and pitcher, and Gregory Zeller in right field. Andrew Hain caught and pitched. Bob Ahner completed the first team as a hurler.

Providing spirit and strength to the starters were reserves: Peter Schmidt, Mike Hartman, Edward Schaeffer, Jack Bellairs, and Thomas Brophy.

Intramurals

T. Sharman gets the jump on his man.

Intramurals provided an opportunity for those, limited by time or ability, who could not participate in interscholastic sports. A healthy physique and an appreciation for sportsmanship were just two of the invaluable rewards of intramural athletics.

Senior high intramurals, directed by Mr. Donald Gottshall, began its program with touch football. One team participated from each grade. The junior team compiled the best record in this category. Soccer teams, grades intermingled, played games until the weather became unfavorable. Basketball was next on the intramural agenda. Three teams from each grade competed in round-robin tournament. In the spring, softball teams from each grade competed.

Mr. James Hoffert organized the junior high intramural activities. Touch-football and soccer were the initial programs begun. Basketball teams followed as intramurals moved indoors. Volleyball and softball were the final activities of junior high intramurals.

A senior high volleyball team competed in the York tournament. The annual field days were held in the spring, consisting of co-educational track and field events.

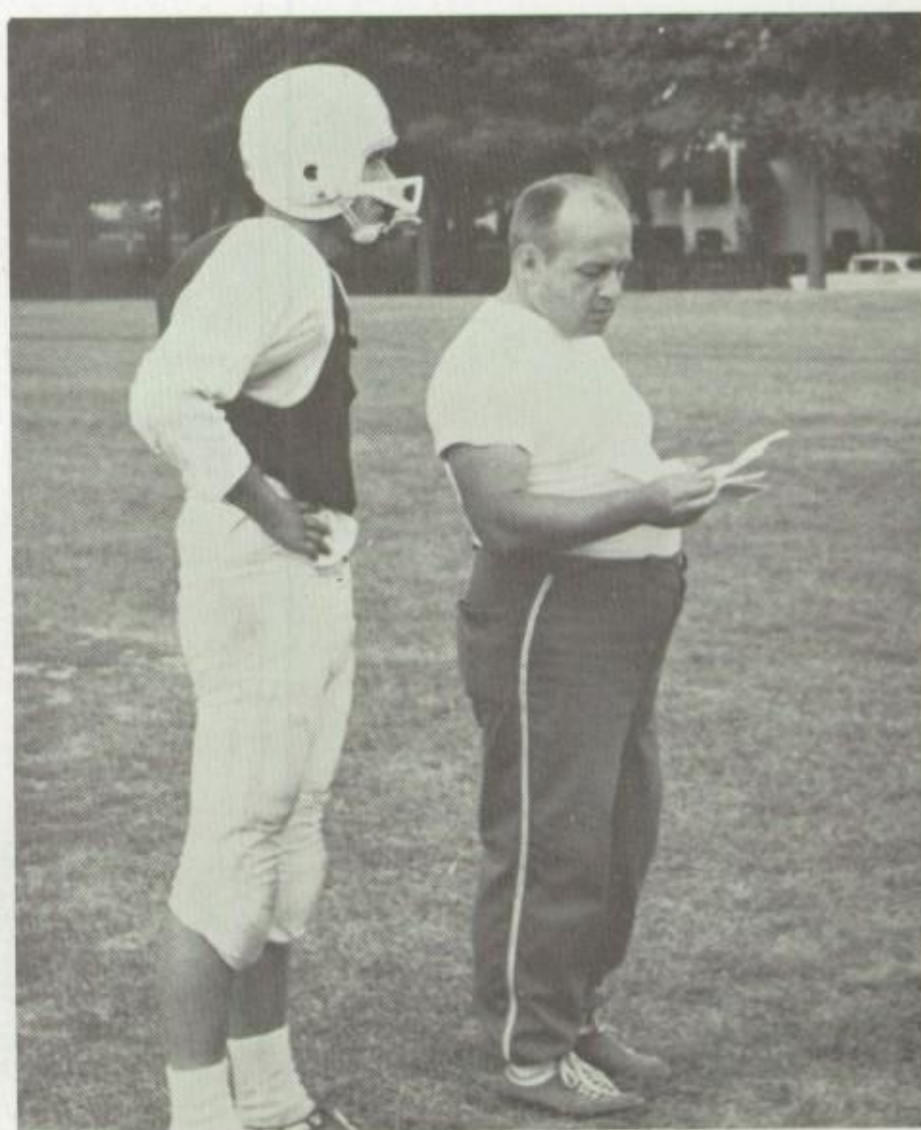

Mr. Hoffert, Mr. Noll, Mr. Reitz, Mr. Gottshall, Mr. Aubrey, Mr. Gebensleben, Mr. Sheetz. MISSING—Mr. Dunkelberger.

Coaches

Wyomissing has always been fortunate in having coaches of high character to instruct and guide its athletes. Our mentors had not only an understanding of their respective sport, but also an essential insight into the psychological workings of young men's minds.

Mr. Charles Gebensleben, in his twelfth year at Wyomissing, guided the varsity to a 2-5-1 record. He was assisted by Mr. James Hoffert and Mr. Bernard Allison. Mr. "G" also coached the tennis team. The cross-country and track teams were led by Mr. Donald Gottshall. Mr. Thomas Aubrey mentored the varsity basketball team and served as assistant tutor for the golf team. The junior varsity basketball coaching was handled by Mr. Jesse Sheetz. Mr. Ronald Dunkelberger, assisted by Mr. Leonard Noll, put the baseball team through its paces. Leading the Warriors to many birdies was Mr. John Reitz, the golf coach. The senior and junior high intramurals were under the direction of Mr. Donald Gottshall and Mr. James Hoffert.

Managers

D. Berry, J. Bechtel, and B. Carabello prepare for practice.

Managers again occupied their special places at Wyomissing High School. With few personal satisfactions enjoyed by the team members, the managers sacrificed time and effort in the service of their school. In their own way the managers gave of themselves to make their school better.

Head manager for almost every sport was Blase Carabello, who led his assistants in a most efficient manner. His colleagues during the football season were Steve Hertzog and Randy Bertollette. During the basketball campaign David Berry, Douglas Wiest, and James Bechtel toiled for Blase.

The spring sports managers were Blase Carabello, baseball, and Pete Fowler, track. The managers who earned letters attended the all-sports banquet in May.

OFFICERS

D. Clay, S. Meinig, M. McShane, D. Cleghorn.

Senior Girls Athletic Association

The 1964-65 Senior Girls Athletic Association was comprised of students who were particularly interested in extra-curricular sports activities. Those who participated in this year's G.A.A. chose Susan Meinig as president, Midge McShane as vice-president, Dudley Cleghorn as treasurer, and Darleen Clay as clerk-of-records. Mrs. Linderman was the club's adviser. Throughout the year, selected teams engaged in hockey, basketball, and volleyball games. Outstanding players in these fields represented Wyomissing in playdays, both at home and away. The outstanding contributions of the organization were to develop the basic fundamentals in all sports, to promote a feeling of fair play, and to create better sportsmanship among the athletes. The main goal of the G.A.A. is total participation.

OFFICERS

W. Jay, D. Spang, B. Ginn, K. Soussloff.

Junior Girls Athletic Association

Girls in grades seven through nine composed this year's Junior Girls Athletic Association. Participants in the activities were represented by students of each homeroom.

The cabinet, elected by members of the organization, included: president, Debbie Spang; vice-president, Kathy Soussloff; secretary-treasurer, Barbara Ginn; clerk-of-records, Wendy Jay. Together with Mrs. Linderman, their adviser, the G.A.A. executive officers presented an active program for all who participated.

The program, which was patterned after its senior high counterpart, was held before school, and offered field hockey, evade-ball, volley-ball, and basketball games to the girls.

Seventh Grade

Seventh graders partake of Mr. Arnold's gastronomical delights.

With much enthusiasm, the seventh grade began its first year at Wyomissing High School with the Student Council's annual orientation program. As "greenies," they were introduced to numerous teachers, classrooms, and activities. Their schedule of classes included mathematics with Miss Brunner, English with Mr. Rickolt, history and geography with Mr. Aubrey, science with Mr. Manderbach, physical education with Mr. Gottshall and Mrs. Linderman, hygiene and home economics with Mr. Hoffert and Mrs. Stover, reading with Mrs. Houck, industrial arts with Mr. Shirk, French with Mr. Frinzi, music with Mrs. Hill, art with Mrs. Ritter, and guidance with Mrs. Heffner.

This year, under the guidance of Miss Brunner and a few seventh grade mothers, fourteen seventh grade boys initiated the Warrior Club. They performed Indian war dances in authentic costumes at basketball games. The class was represented in Student Council by Charles Derr, Patricia Giles, William Kaulter, Rebecca Jung, Kent Olsen, Candace Robinson, Timothy Weaver, and Elizabeth Soussloff.

Eighth Grade

Eighth grade boys rest their feet during sock-hop in the gym.

The eighth graders proudly advanced another step in their education at Wyomissing High School. Being better adjusted, they were eager to drop their title of "greenie," and strive for better academic achievement. More extra-curricular activities, such as Junior Hi-Y, Blue Triangle, Junior G.A.A., and Intramurals, were offered. Their schedule of classes included mathematics with Miss Brunner and Mr. Weik, English with Mrs. Williams, Mr. Rickolt, and Mrs. Houck, history with Mr. Noll, science with Mr. Manderbach, physical education with Mrs. Linderman and Mr. Gottshall, French with Mr. Frinzi, industrial arts with Mr. Shirk, home economics with Mrs. Stover, reading with Mrs. Houck, art with Mrs. Ritter, and music with Mrs. Hill.

Sent to represent their class in Student Council were: Keith Andrews, Lisa Braun, Linda Heisler, James Feeman, Linda Reber, Martin Mellinger, Heather Thomas, and John Speicher. Pete Schlegel served as vice-president of Junior High Co-operative. Pete Schlegel and Betsy Soussloff are president-elect and vice-president-elect respectively of the 1965-66 Junior High Student Council.

Ninth Grade

R. Woolston, C. Brace, C. Hannan, and K. Smith clean out a typical freshman locker.

This year's freshman class, enthused by the thought of having moved up one more notch on the high school ladder, returned for nine months of concentrated effort in the field of scholarship.

Although still a member of junior high, the ninth grade engaged in more and varied subjects and activities. Subjects included: Latin and French, taught by Mrs. Schrack and Miss Jones; mathematics, taught by Mr. Weik and Mr. Brubaker; English, taught by Mrs. Williams; civics, taught by Mr. Gebensleben; science, taught by Mr. Dunkelberger; reading, taught by Mrs. Houck; notehand, taught by Mr. Goodling; home economics, taught by Mrs. Stover; industrial arts, taught by Mr. Shirk; physical education, taught by Mrs. Linderman and Mr. Gottshall; music, taught by Mrs. Hill; and art, taught by Mrs. Ritter. Extra-curricular activities available to freshmen included Blue Triangle, Junior Girls Athletic Association, Junior Hi-Y and intramurals.

Representatives to Student Council included: Michael Chaknos, Charles Hannon, Scott Palmer, and Brian Saylor. Tom Golden served as president of the Junior High Student Council.

Tenth Grade

T. Breitingner and L. Berry are told to keep their class rings for at least a week.

This year's sophomore class displayed great enthusiasm in September at the prospect of their first year in senior high. Most important on the list of activities for sophomores was the purchasing of class rings. Other class activities included: an assembly and a concession stand. Participation in Y-Teens, Hi-Y, Senior G.A.A., and stage crew was also available to the tenth graders.

This was their first encounter with class elections. Victorious in their respective posts were: Tom Breitingner, president; Linda Berry, vice-president; Ann Speicher, secretary; and Charles Fisher, treasurer.

Additional subjects available to the sophomores included: shorthand and typing taught by Mr. Goodling, and driver education, taught by Mr. Shirk.

Representatives of their class in Student Council were: Tom Breitingner, John Jones, Nancy Muller, and Calvin Whitner. Elected to serve as officers of next year's Student Council were: Andy Maier, vice-president; Maryellen Jones, secretary; and Tom Breitingner, treasurer.

Eleventh Grade

Eleventh grade girls show off their dancing ability.

This year's junior class, second in command at Wyomissing High School, looked forward to an industrious year which will be climaxed by their sponsoring of the Junior-Senior Prom to be held on Friday, May 28, at the Berkshire Country Club. Elected as officers of their class were: Bill Schlegel, president; Carol Boyer, vice-president; Elizabeth Spang, secretary; and Bruce Newton, treasurer.

New subjects offered to the juniors included: regular and SMSG geometry, taught by Mr. Brubaker and Mr. Costenbader; biology taught by Mr. Sheetz; and physics, taught by Mr. Bell.

Representatives to the Student Council included: Robert Scholar, Bruce Newton, David Ahner, and Wendy Hayes. Serving as officers of Student Council were: Thomas Bausher, vice-president; Pamela Giles, secretary; and Betsy Speicher, treasurer. Pam Giles was elected as president of next year's Student Council.

Of paramount importance was the CEEB examinations, the results of which are indicative of the students' scholastic achievement.

Epilogue

The members of the Class of 1965 will reach their immediate goal in graduating as did the youth who received the sword-tap of his king on each shoulder. However, he knows that this is only the beginning of a longer road with greater obstacles.

Acknowledgments

The Class of 1965 wishes to express its sincere appreciation to all those who have made the publication of this book possible. We extend special thanks to Mr. Russell Milford for his technical advice and help in editing copy, to Mr. D. C. Shirk for the many hours he spent taking and printing pictures, and to Mr. Goodling for his advice in business matters. We are grateful to Pomeroy's Photography Service, Ensinger Printing Service, and the National Publishing Company for their excellent work, and to the student body, faculty, and citizens of the community for their valuable support and patronage.

Colophon Tribute

As the ancient Greeks inscribed at the end of each book a Colophon, the hallmark of a work sincerely accomplished, so we, the Class of 1965, affix this seal to our Colophon in the hope that our efforts will have merited such a tribute.
